To a very pretty lady that I would like to see sometime this Summer - this year. I hope you don't forget me since you don't forget me because I surely won't forget you. Hope to see you next year

Love Beau

Dena,

Well, high school is over for me and I'm going to college. I was really glad that I got to know you better this year and to have you in Chemistry. I enjoyed every minute of it. Take care, stay beautiful, and don't forget me. Maybe I'll see you this summer.

Love,

Jeff Tolle

Dena,

I told you Chemistry wasn't that tough. You helped make the class fun. Go for it all next year in polo and swimming, and cheer the football team to the valley championship. You're a terrific girl with a lot going for you, and with a little effort, you can be a great success. Your friend,

Mike Rock

-Dena-

This year was really fun having you in 3 classes. I hope you don't forget me & I'll text you guys soon to see me over summer, and I know you'll really get a kick out of your next year. Have a good summer & don't let that "SENIORITIS" get to you too soon.

Love,

Dana

Pup Stands Out

Through the years, certain traditions and events seem to leave their mark upon people and stand out from the rest, while other things fade into the past and are forgotten.

Good times, special friends and homecomings will most likely be remembered by the students of Hanford High; just as bad things.

No student will be able to forget the image of Hanford's mascot, "Barney the Bullpup." Barney was seen everyday on bookcovers, pins, uniforms, posters, at games and on numerous other memorabilia around campus.

Hanford High has been able to leave its mark outside of Hanford in Statewide competition with its top ranking varsity basketball, football, waterpolo, and wrestling teams. Hanford is also nationally known for their Future Farmers of America judging team. FFA's success and size shows the influence Hanford's agricultural background has by the pride and interest students take in it.

Leading the Rest in Fashion

There are many elements that makes a school year special and unique. Several things seem to stand out in the memories of the students; such as fads, fashions, and trends. Hanford students have left their mark upon many by participating in such fads and trends: the preppy style of Vuarnets; the Valley Girls and their "I'm so sure"; and the place to be, "Bubba's" (Tavio's Mini-Mart).

There were countless ways that students shown their individual personalities. Dress was an important asset to the outgoing students; most were able to dress to their mood. Izod shirts, 5-0-1's, and Topsiders were comfortable and stylish. If this was too casual for the occasion, Calvin Kleins and sweaters looked good anywhere. Along with the bow ties and pointed shoes, many other styles came back, for example, short banges and short skirts. Hanford was on top of it all.

Barney Lives

The revised saying, "You've come a long way Pup", could be used when describing the years Barney has been seen at Hanford High. Located for the first time in a 1923 yearbook, Barney had a very different puppy dog appearance, quite different from today's ferocious looking Barney.

Known only as the bullpup in the early years, Barney has observed quite a few changes at Hanford High.

He has been through four changes in the school colors: from purple and white, to crimson and gray; to red and white, to today's red, white, and black. With a multitude of different fashions coming in and going out, and he's also seen a new school rise from the remains of the old. Within the city he's seen a lot of growing and changing.

Even though students and school staff may come and go, Barney will remain to leave his mark upon the future HUHS students for a long time to come.

STUDENT

4. Seniors scrap off the old paint before repainting the bowl. 5. Dick Williams meets a parent at open house. 6. Donel Neely, Mike Roddy and Derrick Mosier enjoy a moment before class.

A variety of students roamed the East and West campuses this year. Each group added their unique form of spirit to every activity.

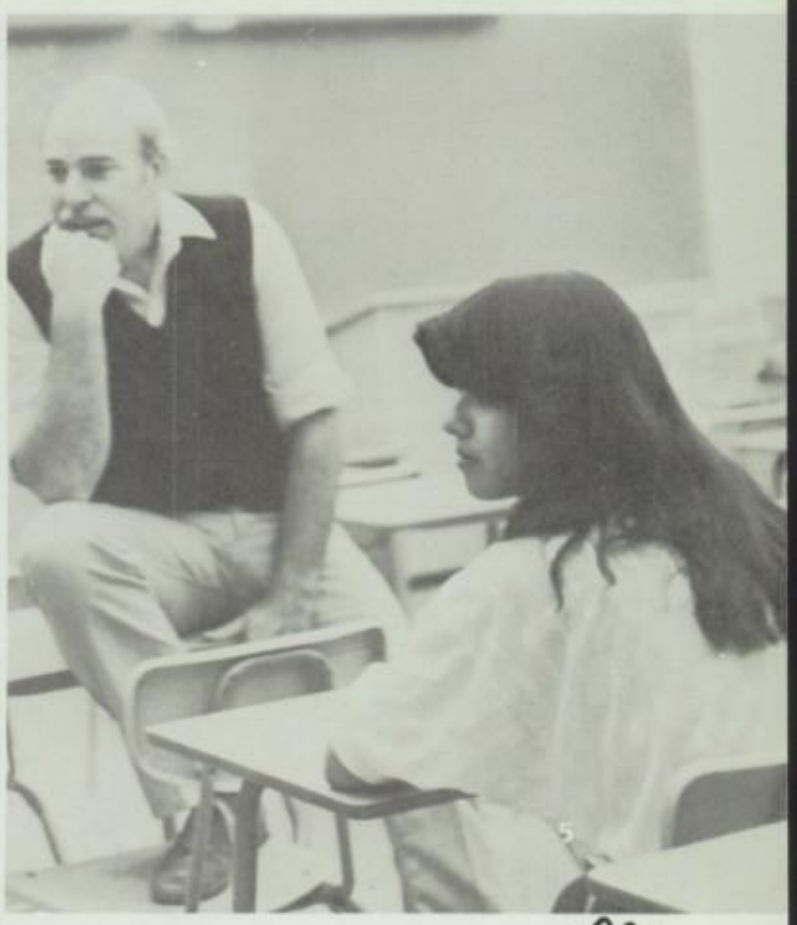
Homecoming was a great success. There were new games such as: egg in your eye, best in bed and meadow-muffin. Dress-up days were fun and crazy. Nurses, doctors, Samiri warriors and a messenger handing out Tylenol grams, were just a part of the commotion.

Rallies were better planned, which resulted in a larger turnout. School spirit exploded inside the gym as a cheerleader was forced to "Kiss a Pig."

Dances also had a larger turnout than last year. Groups who played at the dances were chosen to appear by the student body therefore, a variety of entertainment was played.

Thus a variety of activities ran throughout the year, keeping HUHS spirit alive.

ACTIVITIES



1. Linda Low is the best dressed Indian on West. 2. Tim Lemos leaves rally in punk design. 3. Scuba diver plans to swim to Hawaii with friends.

It's A Surfer It's A Squaw Spirit In All

Homecoming, fun, crazy, spirit, pride, most of all imagination. "It's a time when you can be whoever or whatever you want to be," stated, senior, Lisa Vierra. Hawaiian-Surfer day started off the festivities of homecoming. Beachcombers yelling "surfs up" and Hula girls rushed off to the luau.

Then came a stampede of pure havoc; Cowboys and Indians. Out of it came a young man dressed in a Ronald Reagan mask and a book of economics at his side, to keep law and order.

Next came gangster day, which generated the most participants. The Freshman had the largest gang, with 73 people dressed up. The seniors were not to be outdone. As Bob Sharp's gang stormed the campuses at snack and lunch. Driving his model T-Ford, his gang forced everyone into hiding.

Almost Anything Goes day gathered the most unique costumes. Hare Karshna's cult sold flowers as green martians looked on. The week concluded with traditional red, white, and black day.

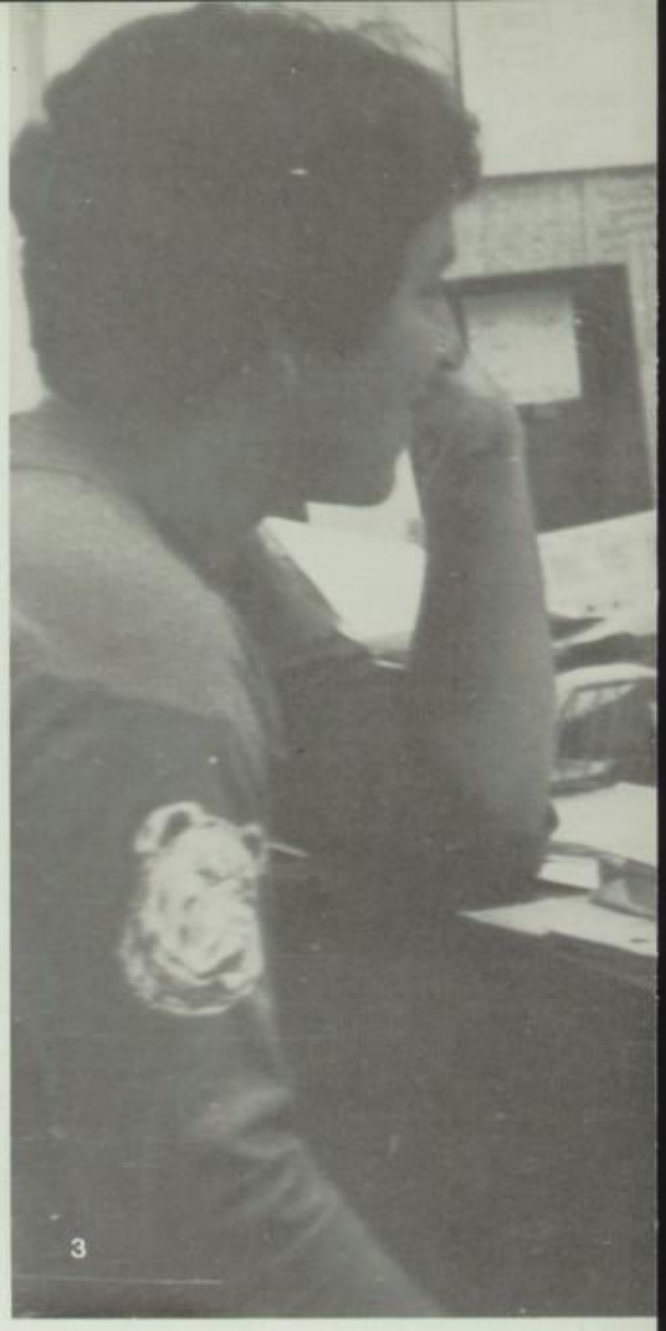
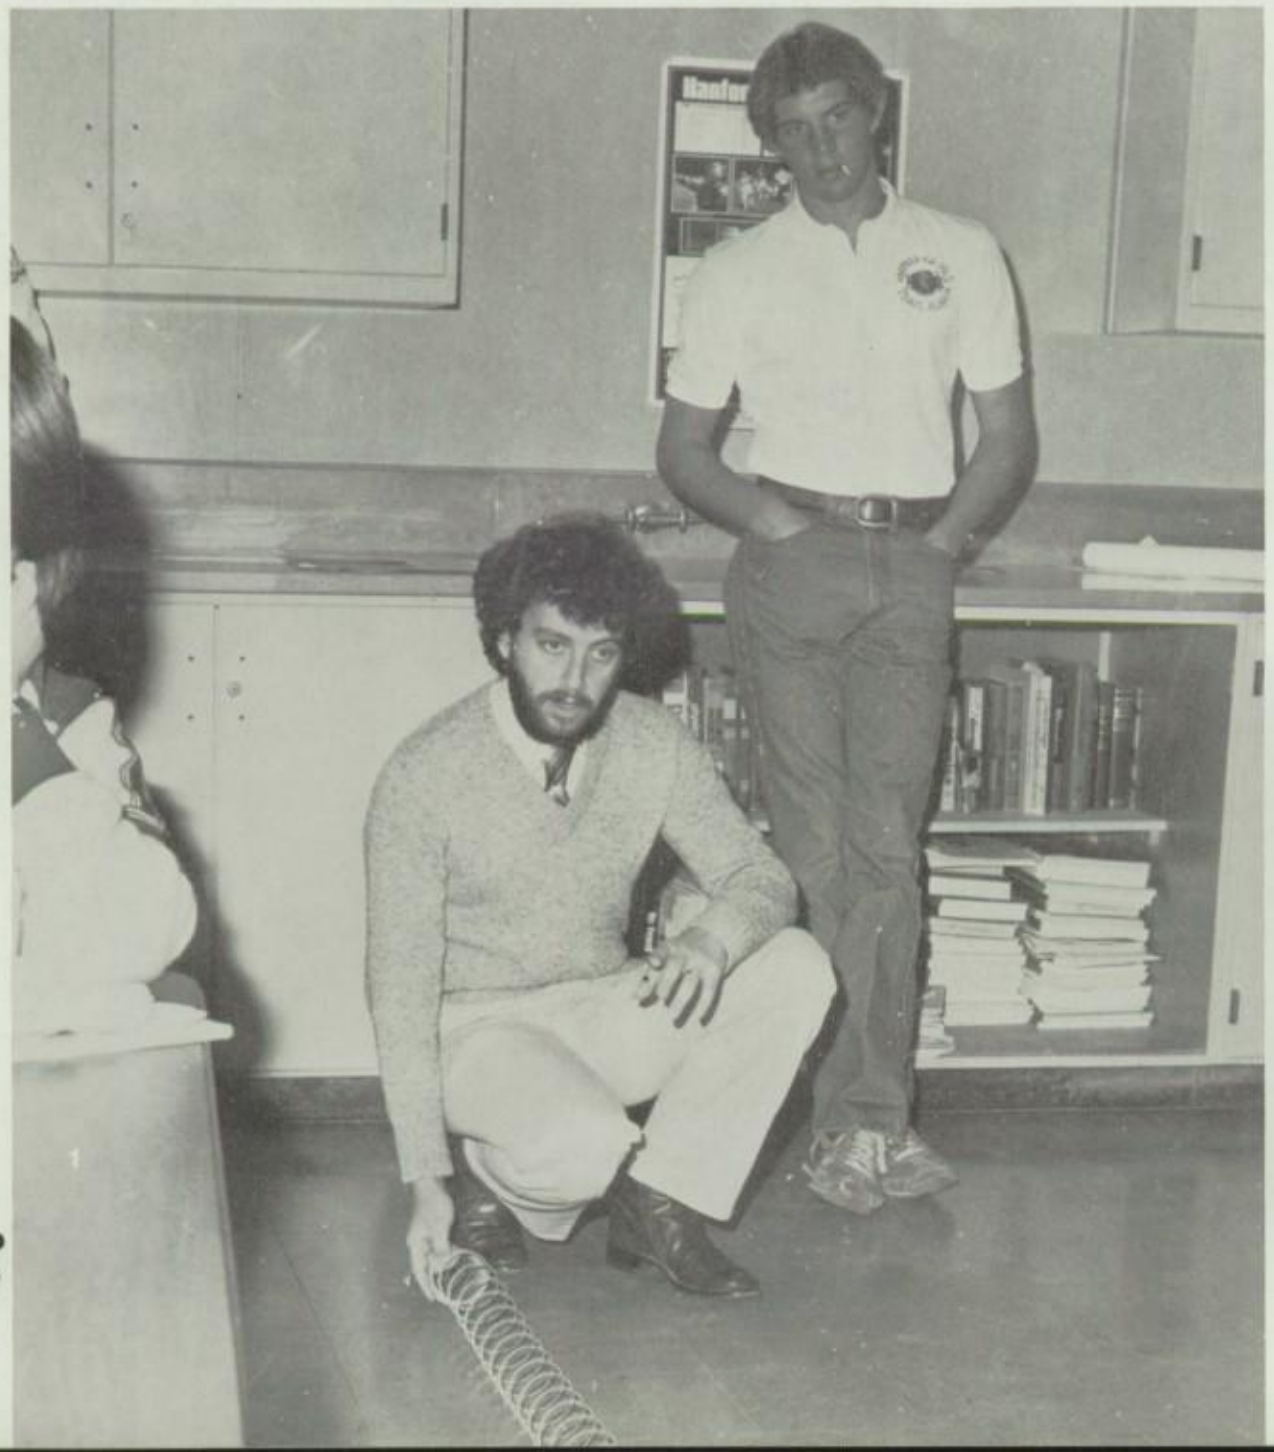
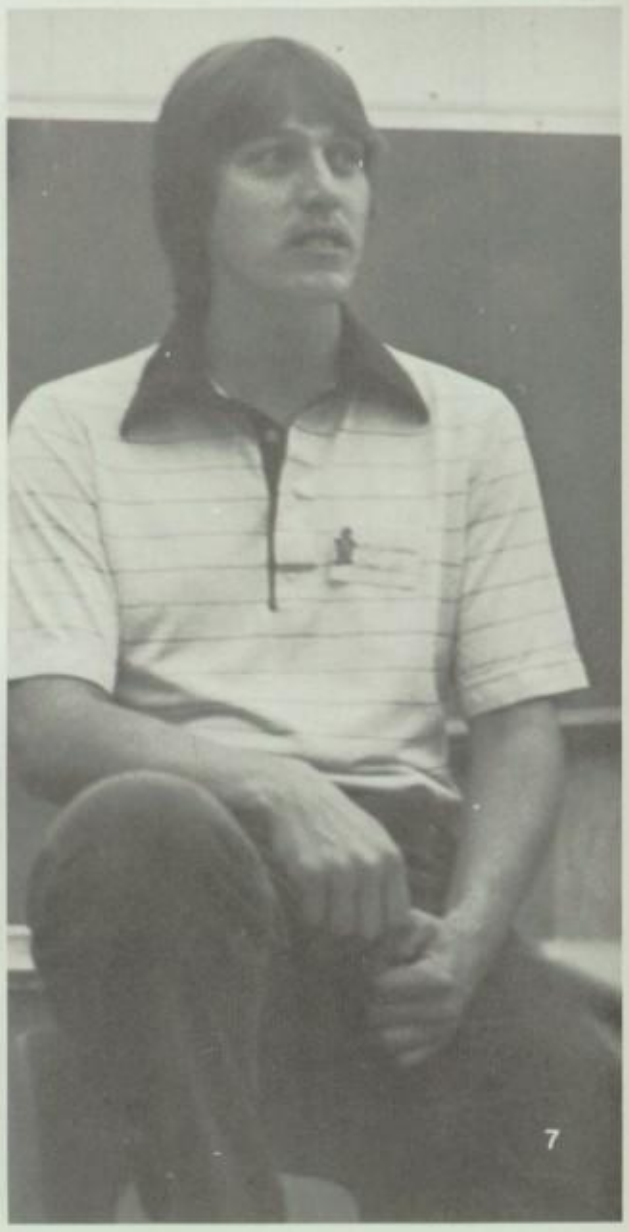
School, Business As Usual

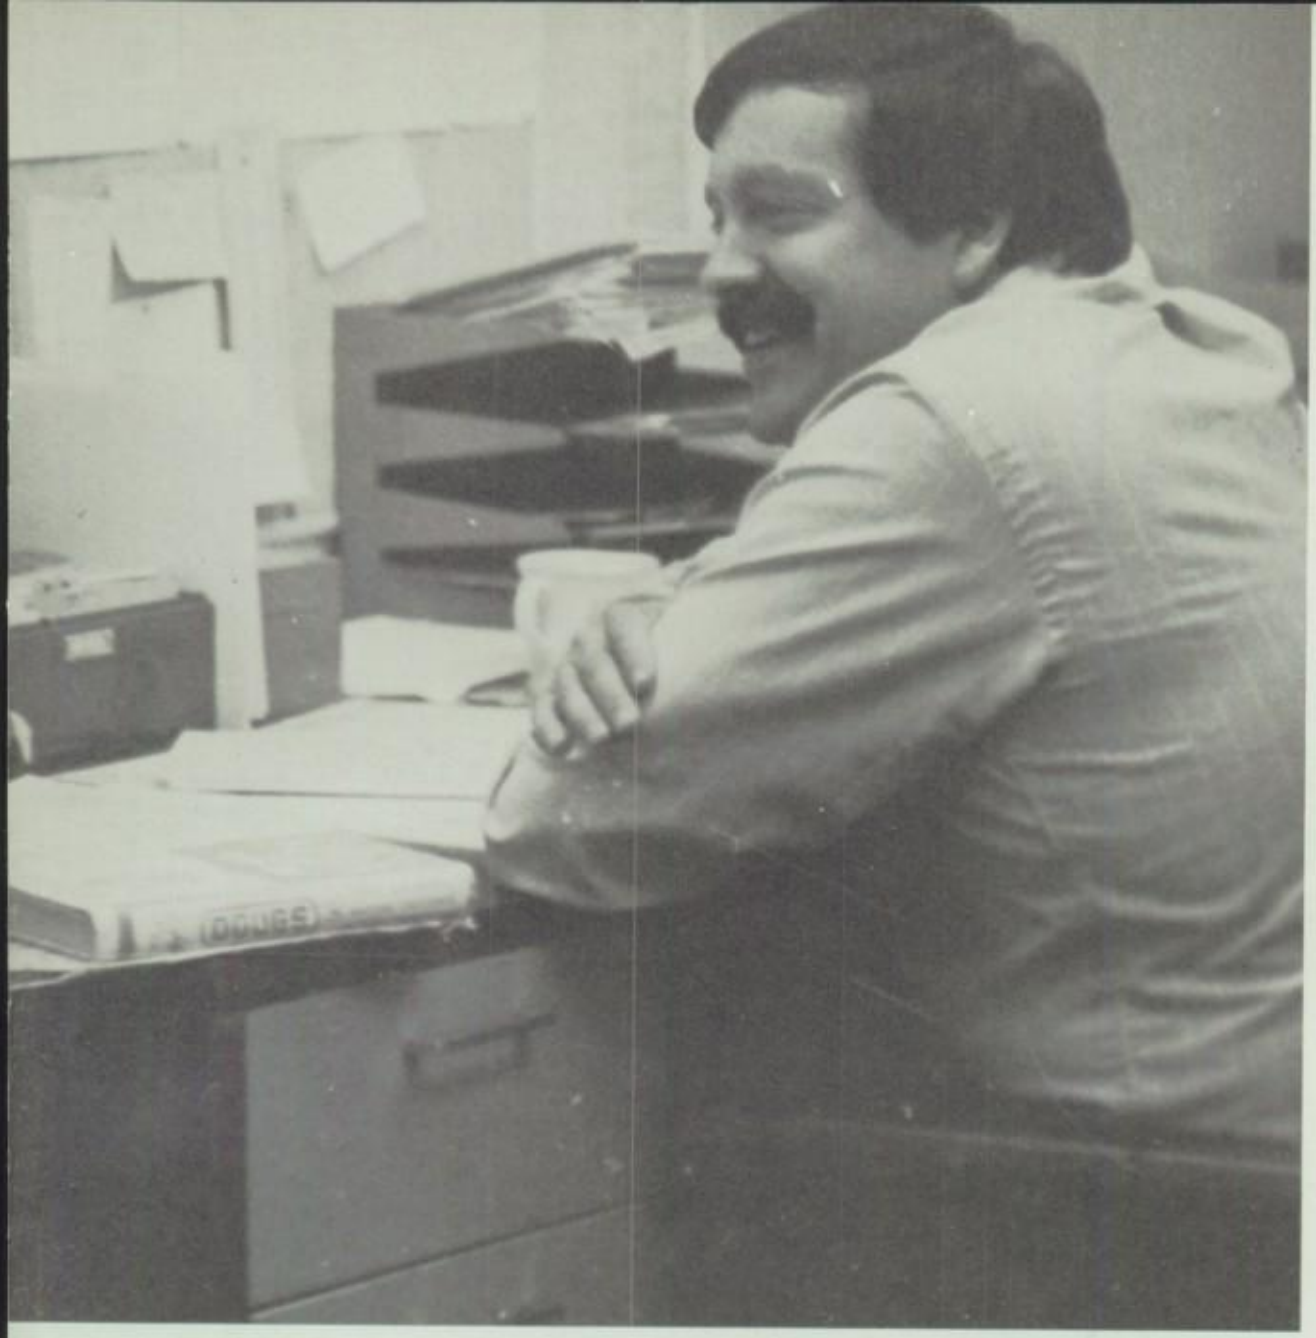
Whether it was braces, the lack thereof, new perms moustaches, cars, jobs, or just good old get-togethers, the first days of school took something to get through. This year, was no exception, reported many new faces, mainly Freshmen. Nevertheless, Senior or Freshman, East or West, the first day is always something new.

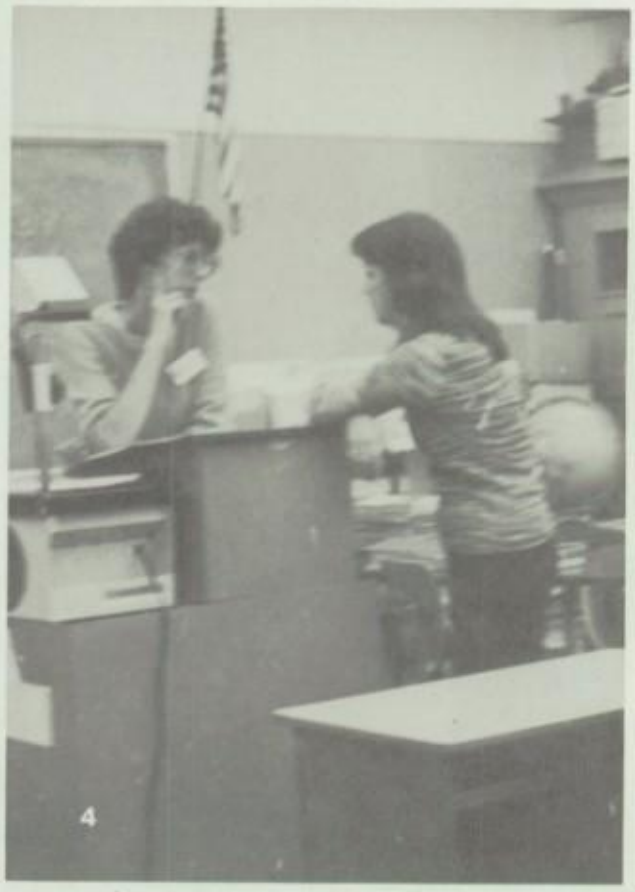
This year, students got the jump on initiation by being able to pick up their schedules beforehand. The opening assembly greeted students, explained old and new policy, before sending them to their classes. Soon students adjusted to their courses and teachers; then it was business as usual.

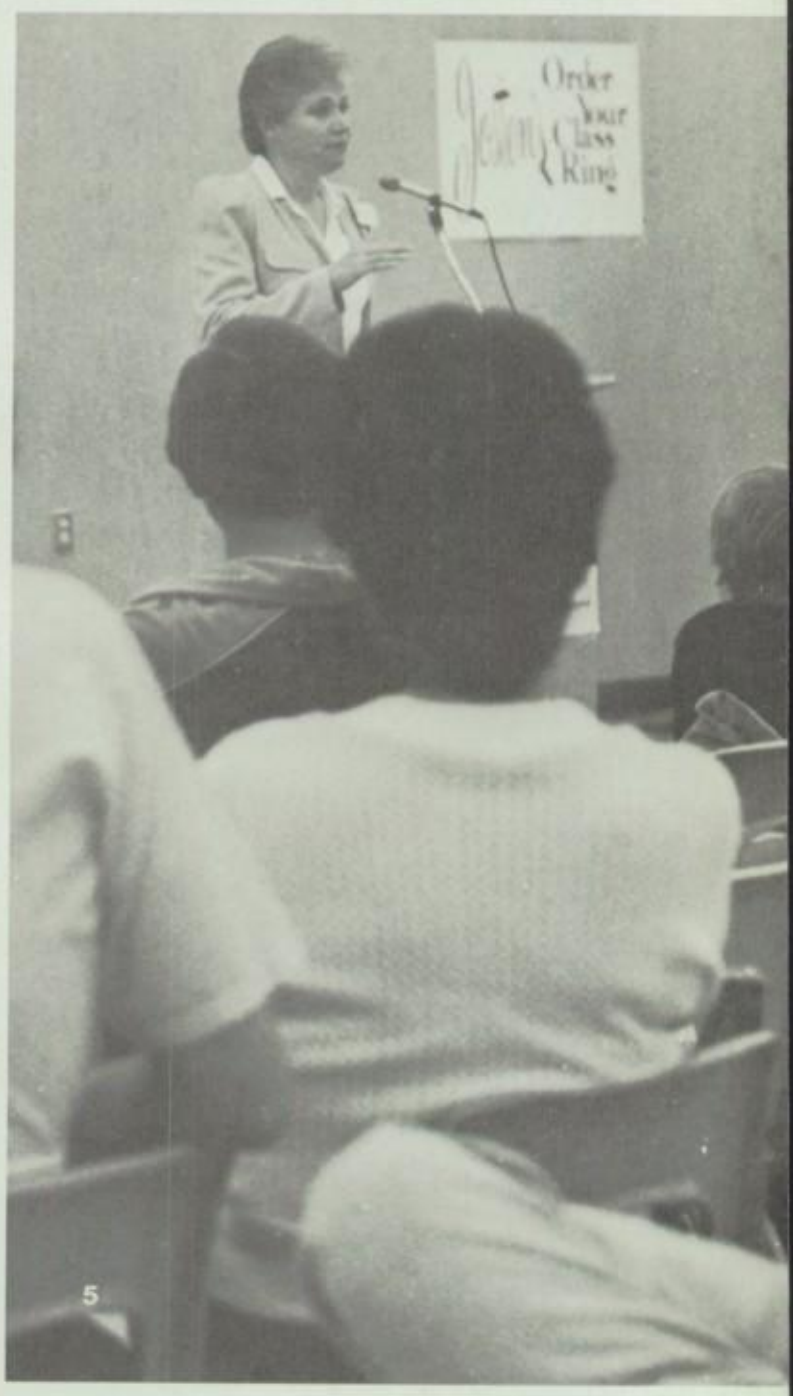












4. Cathy Kalvon speaks with parent. 5. Sharon Black greets parents at open house. 6. Chris Whitacre, Ray Woods, and another students tune up a car in Auto shop. 7. Jamie Anderson listens to his students.

Royal Court Honored

All the splendor of a ceremonial crowning was present as the Homecoming candidates circled the bowl. The previous monarchs, Rick Cardoza and Lisa Strang, took the honored role of crowning the royalty. The crowd quieted as the announcer began the awaited declaration. The suspense rose as Mike Keck and Helene Camara, followed by Arthur Leon and Jill Keith were honored as Dukes and Duchesses. The loud applause gradually faded as the loyal subjects hushed in expectation. Upon announcing Alvin Horn and Kathleen Loya as Prince and Princess, the stands rippled with excitement. The rest was delightfully obvious. The year's reigning King and Queen were Allyn Flores and Becky Ray. The stadium remained filled with claps of applause, screams of joy, and shouts of approval the entire evening.

1. The Royal Couple, Becky Ray and Allyn Flores, express feelings of delight in their new calling. 2. Last year's Queen Lisa Strang receives Alvin Horn and Kathleen Loya. 3. Friends And Trends

Many friendships made at Hanford High School will last forever. Students on the West Campus gather together, meeting for the first time. Many of these friendships evolve out of student activities such as; dances, team sports, clubs, as well as classroom interactions. "A good place to meet friends is in class, or at dances," reported Ignacio Garza. He also stated that, "Noon recreation makes the day more enjoyable, when we are able to play basketball with friends." "The best place to meet friends was at the Monday Night Jam," confessed Mike Roddy, who participated as a Sophomore cheerleader. "People came up and talked to me but mostly teased me. It was all in fun."

Trends have been popular on both campuses. Labels were important to the fashion conscience student. In clothes; Jordache, Rag City Blues, Dittos, Wranglers, Ocean Pacific, Mini Skirts, leg warmers, head bands, and many others were in vogue. Fads such as 'Valley Girls', 'New Wave', and 'Punk' were celebrated by some students. Others chose more nostalgic activities such as going roller skating and to the drive-in. All-in-all HUHS students have tried for the best.

Friends often influence the styles which were popular. The students and the staff will remember the styles which were popular, but more they will value the friendships they have made.

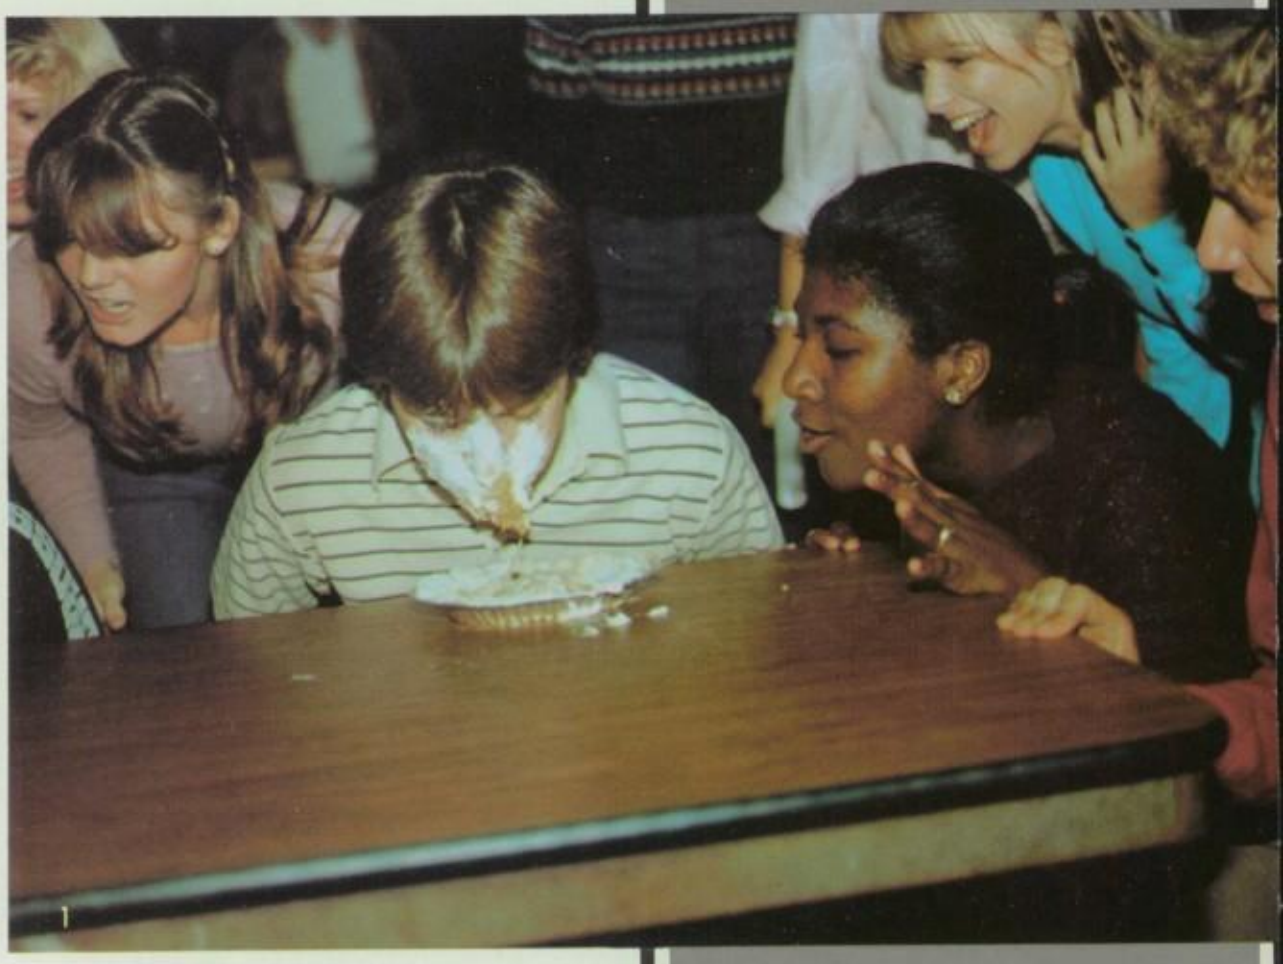
Seniors, Freshmen Tie in Vie for Stick

This year's Homecoming took a surprising twist as, for the first time ever, we had a tie for first place. Yes, the Seniors and Freshmen tied for the Spirit Stick, while the Juniors finished second and the Sophomores third. There were no losers for the Homecoming of '82.

Homecoming festivities began Monday with the highly spirited Jam. Consequently, that night's activities ignited students for the rest of the exhilarating week.

After the popular Thursday Parade of Cars, it was time for the Friday Rally. Main events included class skits and floats, of which the Seniors viewed theirs as "the best ever", in addition to the intense competition. One Freshman summed up the week and its outcome as "totally too mean!!"



1. Senior Gordon Myers proves who's faster with the jaw, while Rogenia Jackson coaches, and Bill Waldrum and Rose Mary Laughlin look on amazed. 2. Juniors cram into Jeep during Thursday's Parade of Cars. 3. Senior Damon Leal and Junior Dana Keirn prefer sunny-side-up in the Egg in your Eye event.

4. The Senior Float, with its topical theme and replica of the bowl, was truly a remarkable feat. 5. Sophomore Ken Harley was hands-down the fastest chugger; with a stance of disinterest, he waits for another round. 6. Fifteen Seniors pile onto a bedspread in the Best in Bed competition; they lost, while the Freshmen placed first.

Dances Shake It up

After watching a long football game, complete with the noise, crowds and excitement, it's about time for a little peace and quiet, right? Not for the students of Hanford High. After home games, most students always seem to head for the gymnasium — to dance.

Sponsored by the ASB, as well as the classes, these social gatherings gave students the opportunity to dance, mingle, and a whole lot more. Music was provided in the form of licorice pizza (records), and a live band occasionally. Students 'boogied' to all styles, from disco to new wave. To the delight of everyone, there was always someone who ingeniously designed their own moves.

Band Continues To Keep The Beat

With the comings and goings of members each year, it's a great accomplishment that the band can play with harmony. Fortunately, this feat is performed annually under the guiding eye of Lee McCullough, the band director.

The 1982-83 band was an attractive combination of talented Hanford High students. With this wide range of skill present, all involved benefited through association. All band members left their mark on the Bullpup band program. The band can credit their excellence to constant, dedicated practice. Meeting daily during fifth period and every Thursday evening, the band demonstrated enthusiasm and active participation. "Real good potential" turned into "near perfection".

No one can deny the fact that the band contributed zest and spirit to all activities. Indeed, members gave the Hanford High Bullpups many favors in their diligent endeavor to keep the beat.

Band Raises Fun Level In '82-'83

Just as the perfect diamond is complemented by a beautiful case, also would an inspiring band be magnified by new uniforms. In view of this, band members embarked on a campaign to raise funds so they could lay their ancient ones to rest. This year, the band collected enough money so they can purchase the uniforms next year, and at the same time raised enough funds for some additional fun. Fund-raisers included a successful pancake breakfast in addition to their other money-raising drives.

This year wasn't all work and no play. Besides games, tournaments, and parades, a select group was also involved with the jazz band. Daily morning practices reflected the selfless spirit of this dedicated group. Whether they performed at service clubs, Jr. rallies, or public concerts, the musicians shared the spirit of the entire band with their highly appreciative audiences.

Salute To Valley Champs

"The dream came true. We worked hard for four years for the Valley Championship. It was a perfect ending," commented Coach Mack Haines, on their over-all victory.

Coaches Haines and Mark Tunison, believe that defense is the key to high school waterpolo. "I like to always keep pressure on the other team, by playing good defense and then breaking them," explained Haines.

Outstanding members of the team were Greg Gamble, Steve Allen, Scott Larson, and Ed Durant. Greg Gamble, a four year veteran, received many awards. He made first team all league for two years, all American and Northern California Jr. Nat. Team. Scott Larson and Steve Allen, both received two year first team All League Players. Ed Durant received All League and All Valley.

Highlights of the season were; beating Merced High twice (national ranking of first), placing third in Hawaii USA invitational, and taking Valley Championship.

Cheerleaders Revive Enthusiam

"Our goal as cheerleaders was to get the students' pride and spirit soaring," stated Kathy Simas, varsity cheerleader. To help accomplish this the cheerleaders sold bullpup paws. "We were surprised by how much spirlt was produced," said pep girl, Kathleen Loya. The cheerleaders also had a poster contest. The student who submitted the best poster received 15 dollars. This gave students a chance to become directly involved and get them fired up at the game.

To help pay for various expenses, the cheerleaders sold Pom-pon Mums, during homecoming. They also had a "Kiss a Pig" contest. Where each cheerleader had a donation can with her name on it; whoever received the most money had to kiss a pig. The winner had the choice of kissing a real pig or a policeman. It was part of a publicity stunt for the Lemoore-Hanford rally.

Cheerleaders Pep Girls Show Style

The spirit of Hanford High's cheerleaders and pep girls over took the U.S.A. camp in Santa Barbara this summer. Each squad came back with an array of awards.

The varsity squad showed Hanford's pride by bringing home various blue ribbons and a superior trophy for an overall superior performance. They carried on their spirit in the Regional competition in January.

The Varsity pep squad lead in spirit with the superior trophy; a third place in competition, and a spirit stick. "The spirit we received from our great experience at camp will follow with us into the school year," stated, Tracy Flores, varsity pep girl.

The J.V. squad also showed great enthusiasm by bringing home some superior ribbons, an excellent ribbon and superior trophy.

Continuing with spirit, the Frosh-Soph cheerleaders won superior ribbons and an outstanding ribbon at camp.

This year's squads were organized by Linda Vincent. She felt the girls worked exceptionally well together. "They are really devoted to promoting school spirit," said Vincent.

4. Jill Keith shows her enthusiasm as she cheers, 5. Spirit rose as Dena Nordman, Kathy Simas and Maggie Trujillo do their cheers, 6. Tammy Morris claps her paws at a Friday rally.

Foreign Students Enjoy USA

Most people just dream of living in another country, but for Hanford's four new exchange students it was a dream come true.

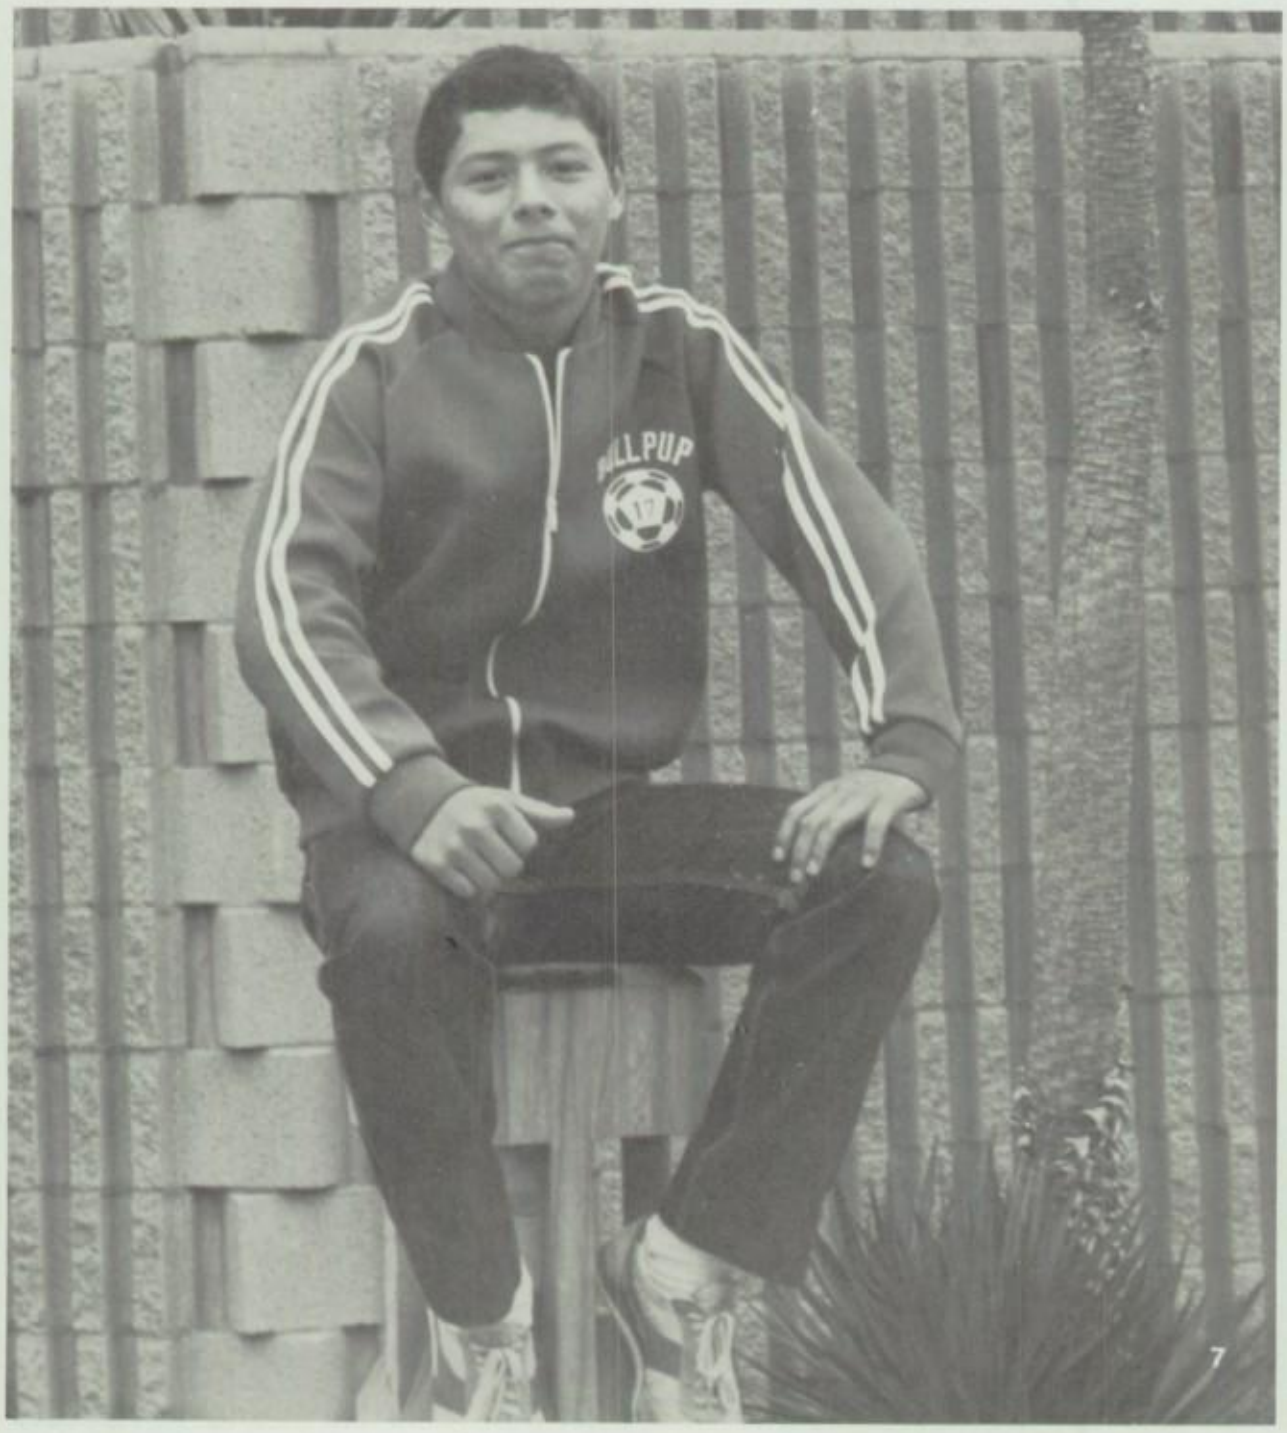
Lilian Albquerque was a native of Fortal, Brazil. She was sponsored by Youth for Understanding, and lived with the Stanley Cook family. Lilian was active not only at H.U.H.S., but in the community as well. She was a member of A.F.S. (American Field Service), C.B.S. (Catholic Brothers and Sisters), and the Presbyterian high school group.

Akiko Higashi was a seventeen year old exchange student from Japan. She was sponsored by International Y.M.C.A., and stayed with the Hari Murrisky family. Akiko was a member of Hanford High's tennis team and A.F.S. club. She enjoyed the various holidays of America.

Carlos Menosso was from southern Brazil. He was sponsored by the Rotary club. During his stay in Hanford, he lived with three families; the Merle White's, Fred Lockwood's, and Richard Neill's. He was an active member of the Rotary, Y.M.C.A., 4-H, C.B.S., and A.F.S. clubs.

Fernando Riveros was a native of Paraguay. He stayed with the Mike Watkins family. He was outstanding as a member of Hanford High's soccer team. He was also a member of A.F.S. In conclusion, the foreign exchange students enjoyed the USA.

1. Lilian smiles prettily for the camera. 2. Fernando all "caught up" in his surroundings. 3. Carlos shows he's not afraid of heights. 4. Lilian and Akiko take time out to pose for a picture. 5. Akiko's favorite thing about America is the various holidays. 6. Carlos casually lounges against a pole. 7. Fernando proudly wears his Hanford High soccer team jacket.



Girls "go for it" at Sadies

The Sadie Hawkins Dance was a great chance for the girls to ask that special guy they've been "eying", to a dance. The girls switch places with the guys and splurge on their dates. The gals take them to dinner and treat them like gentlemen.

The Sophomore class sponsored the annual event at Hanford High. It was held in the gym on March 12th. Hay bales added to the "hoe-down" atmosphere.

For those couples ready to get hitched, there was "Marry'n Sam" to make everything legal. There was also a "Couples Smoochin' Square", which was provided for the honeymooners.

"Little Rock" played a variation of songs for all tastes of music from country to rock.

About 250 couples attended the event, which profited about $1500. Sophomore class Vice President Larry Ross stated, "We're impressed with the outcome, and the band was great."

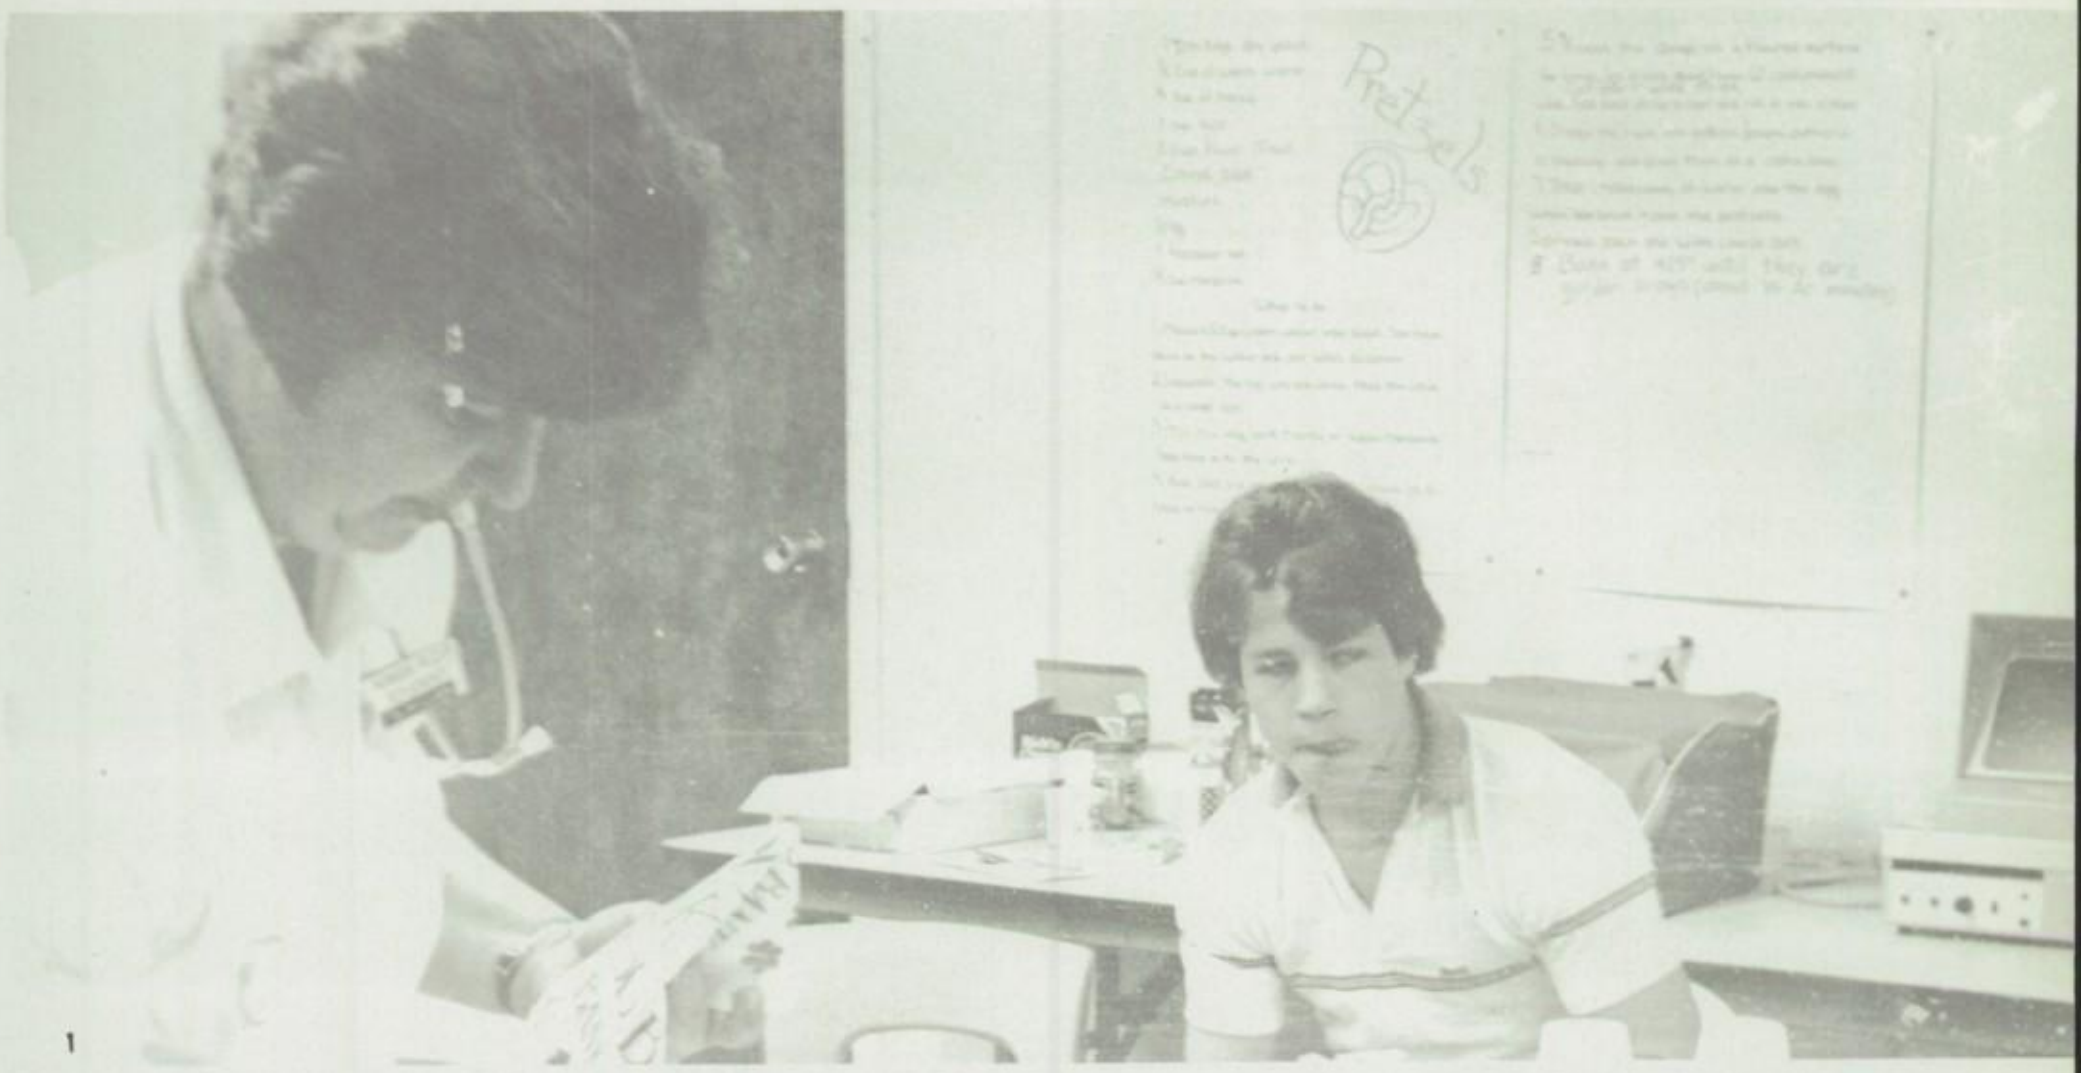
Students Blood Runs Hot

The beginning of February stirred heartbeats of love as Valentine's Day was romantically approaching. The bulletin advertised Valentine Grams, local florists were busy as bees, and the Freshmen were appropriately in charge of the Sweetheart Dance.

The dance, like all aftergame dances should, followed a victory in basketball and soccer, as the Bullpups routed Golden West and Lemoore respectively. Hearts adorned the wall, setting the mood for an evening of blissful enjoyment.

Financially and socially, the dance was a great success as a large crowd participated.

1. Louie Rodriguez and his date embrace during a slow song. 2. John Maciel proposes a dance to Gena Strang. 3. Kirsten Schleininger, Fernando Riveros, Tracy Broaddus, Eric Escobar, and Stephanie Chin move to a lively tune.



1. Mark Nelson shows a hearty appetite as he regains strength. 2. Dr. Leeds Lacy gets involved by donating blood. 3. Russell Sellers, a student and a paramedic, assists by taking Bob Sharp's blood pressure. 4. Kevin Garcia recuperates?

Blood Drive Drains Students

The Central California Blood Bank and Hanford High's Associated Student Body once again collaborated on the Seventh Annual Blood Drive held at Hanford High.

More than 140 people signed up to donate, but only approximately 80 units were drawn. More than 55 people were turned down for various reasons such as colds, not eating breakfast, etc.

A free dance was offered by 96FM if 96 units had been drawn, but Hanford High had a hard time meeting the goal.

Students were required to rest after the "draining" experience.

Chairpersons Jill Keith and Trudy Loogman wanted to thank everyone who helped and everyone who donated blood.

Food Fair Sparks "Bon Appetite"

Student connoisseurs convened at the East Campus gazebo for the annual Food Fair. Experts on the matter of food, they exercised their natural talents by sampling from a wide variety. At an unheard of price of 25¢ a piece, the pizza sold rapidly alongside chili, nachos, and french fries. Delicacies included blueberry and cherry cobbler, hot chocolate, strawberry dacquiris, and a grand supply of pastries.

The food disappeared quickly. Indeed, the demand for hot dogs depleted the Junior Class's supply of frankfurters; not to be thwarted, they sold the buns a la carte. Entrepreneur Jim Empey of the Ski Club prompted sales by making a number of "just for you" deals. Empey was quite satisfied with the club's profits: $70.00, half of a pizza, a bun a la carte, and two oatmeal cookies.

Perils Of Penelope

This year the Senior Class presented "The Perils of Penelope Pureheart." Written in 1974 by drama teacher and director Frank Mann, it was first performed at Hanford High in 1978.

The play deals with the conniving Phileas T. Hardman and his efforts to foreclose on the house of the Purehearts. He is helped by a corrupt building inspector, Wallace Plyboard: a bar owner, Anzia Overbear and her niece, Bertha, an eavesdropping maid. They day is saved by the timely arrival of the hero, Philmore Goodfellow.

Because it is a melodrama, the audience was urged to participate by cheering for the hero and booing the villain. M.C. Steve Huntington threatened to tell "Lonn Huntington" jokes if they didn't.

A Capella Celebration of Song

"A Capella Choir was a performance class and rewarding, if you like to sing," according to Lee McCullough, who has been the Choir Director for the last four years.

"There is something for everyone. We sing a range of songs from classical to religious to popular," reported Diana McMullough, who plays piano for the group.

The thirty-three member choir had a very busy year. Besides doing five concerts, they also did numerous performances around Christmas time at resthomes, service clubs, and women's clubs.

Although the choir has had much success, McMullough would like to see the vocal program here expanded, offering more choirs and opportunities to sing making A Capella the top Choir to be asked to sing in, rather than the only one offered.

Organizations Exploded

Leaving their mark, was the main goal for most organizations this year. They accomplished this by improving their attitudes and attendance.

The California Scholarship Federation aroused after several years of dormancy. They worked exceedingly hard on improving group involvement. FHA, FFA, FBLA, and the Forensics clubs left their mark by bringing home various awards from competitions. Other clubs showed greater school pride with an increase of membership. AFS president, Carolyn Lewis said, "As the clubs membership increased so did the enthusiasm." All clubs met their goals of increasing involvement, attendance and school pride.

ASB Active, Spirited Bullpups

This year's Associated Student Body was intent on increasing school spirit. ASB President Arthur Leon summed up the campaign by pointing out its importance. "Active participation generates both personal and school success. One can see the effects of Bullpup Pride by looking at programs like water polo, FFA, and football. Excited, dedicated students produce champions!"

Steps to boost school spirit included regular ASB meetings, the formation of enthusiastic committees, and organized ICC sessions. The purpose of ICC was to coordinate club activities and regulate school business. Consequently, this emphasis of student involvement resulted in a fantastic Homecoming and wide support for the football team as they excelled in the playoffs.

All students were invited to get involved with student government, a prime example being the CASC conference held at Hanford High.

Bumper Crop of Future Farmers

Future Farmers of America, one of the largest organizations on campus, had always been an active, successful club. This year proved to be no exception. The future farmers were kept busy with fund-raising, field trips, competition, and National FFA Week.

The FFA Fund kept growing larger. By running the concession stand at football games, they made a profit of $3000. By vending chili at the Food Fair and sponsoring a barbecue they increased their margin for fun even more. The budget was devoted to field trips and tournaments. Scholarships were awarded to outstanding individuals at the year's end.

Competition played a major part in the club's program. Hanford High boasted 26 teams that competed in such events as livestock, public speaking, dairy products, meat judging and small engines. They competed in national and state tournaments, the chief example being Cow Palace in San Francisco. In keeping with tradition, they brought home countless awards, ribbons, and trophies.

The club attracted school attention with National FFA Week. Held in late February, other students were encouraged to attend the Animal Farm and a petting zoo, during snack and lunch. They also offered a tug-of -war contest, which was a muddy delight, and a haybucking contest, which seemed a little one-sided. The club completed the exhilarating week with an enormous barbecue.

Art Club On the Move

Every Wednesday after school a group of students could be found in Room 65 sitting around discussing such topics as painting, drawing, sculpting, or photography. These twenty students make up this year's Art Club.

The club, which was advised by Mark Tunison, sponsored an art show every year. This year's show, Expectations '83, gave students at Hanford High and surrounding schools a chance to show off their artistic talents. To help raise money for the event, the club sold fight ribbons, held bake sales, a car wash, and other fund raisers.

The atmosphere of the club was great because everyone is so supportive of each other's dreams and goals. "We are always helping each other," commented club President Vincent Gonzales.

Math Club is Challenged by Hard Problems

The Math Club is probably the smallest club at H.U.H.S. since it consists of only seven members. Meeting every Tuesday, the coincidentally all male club would spend lunchtime working on special math problems. "The problems are very, very hard, but that's why I like the club," commented member Mike Keck. "It challenges me."

Also at the meetings, the club gets ready for the two competitions it enters every year, the Fresno State University Math Field Day and the Cal Poly Math-O-Rama. "I like the competitions the most. You get to see how your knowledge of math compares with that of other students in the Valley," stated third year member Gordon Myers. "Instead of being part of a small select group where others think you're smart, you are now surrounded by many who are just as smart if not more smart than you," he continued.

Advisor Carl Eberly added, "There are some truly gifted Math students at Hanford High, and this club lets them do a bit more in their field of interest."

A Chief Ingredient In Every Society

The Future Homemakers of America resolved their past problem of inactivity by offering an attractive program made up of competition, fundraisers, recreation and service projects. Consequently, the club of about 25 members was kept busy learning practical, useful skills.

Members competed in many events and received special recognition for placing first with a Chapter Exhibit and third for a speech on nutrition. In addition to the tournaments, they traveled to Palo Alto for the state convention and to surrounding cities like Fresno for regional meetings.

Club officers organized activities with the intention of preparing for the future. To earn money, they sold stationery, sponsored a Wake-a-thon, and sold used clothing to the Next-to-New Shop. They contributed their time and efforts to others by giving food and money to a needy family at Christmas and serving as hosts at the Special Olympics.

Mulligatawny, Ostentatious and Other Nemesises

The audience was silent as Spelling Bee coordinator Jamie Anderson gave the word. After a pause, Carolyn Lemmon proceeded to give an answer, "Plebiscite, p-l-e-b-i-s-c-i-t-e, plebiscite." "Congratulations!" Hanford High had just proven its top orthographers at the 3rd Annual HUHS Spelling Bee.

School competition began with a 50-word test, used to determine the finalists, given about a month before the spell-off. The Spelling Bee itself had a format of written and oral competition. The top five in the written part went on to contest orally. Finally, due to stumpers such as "mulligatawny" and "ostentatious", Hanford High had a champion. Carolyn Lemmon placed first, Gordon Myers second, Anna Daza third, and Steve Huntington fourth. These top four advanced to the county tournament. The other finalists were Fred Martinez, Lori Kelley, Kristen Larson, Brian DeSouza, and Mike Zamora.

Foreigners Bring Their Culture to Hanford High

Many students dream of living in a foreign country. For them American Field Service can make this dream come true. The problem was that many do not know what A.F.S. was and that there has been a club at Hanford High.

A.F.S. was an organization that enabled students to come to the United States from one of 55 countries to live with American families and attend school here. American students can also go abroad to live and study for a summer or for a year.

One of this year's A.F.S. students was Fernando Riveros from Paraguay. The main job of the forty-member club was to help him and the other exchange students adjust to life in Hanford. Together, they did various activities including picnics, roller skating, skiing and selling candy.

The exchange students often gave talks about their countries and lifestyles. Many alumni who were exchange students in the past came back to share their experiences.

This year's President, Caroline Lewis, will be visiting a foreign country next year. She stated that one of her goals is to travel to places that, "I have read about in history books and to be a good example of an American."

Business Leaders Thrive On Competition

The Hanford Chapter of the Future Business Leaders, boasting about 65 members, was one of the more active clubs on campus. The purpose of this organization was to prepare its members in certain areas of business and, in doing so, faciliate the transition from school to the working world.

Made up of business-minded people, the club had plenty of programs to raise necessary funds. Major fundraisers included a Christmas candle sale, See's Sucker sales and football program sales.

Special activities of this year were found in a Christmas party for the handicapped children at Lee Richmond School and a APPLEHOW Computer Fair held in December.

Members contributed other acts of service by running the Student Store and having a FBLA Typing Service. By working with the Students Store, members gained experience in cashiering and management. In the typing service, volunteers typed papers for grateful teachers.

Competition played a major role in FBLA activities. Members could compete in many business events such as typing,

Thespians Augment Campus Comedy

Field trips to the snow and to see plays were just a few activities the Drama club enjoyed this year. One of their trips was to Pollardville to watch a melodrama. "I wanted them to see how I expected the senior play, a melodrama, to be performed," said advisor, Frank Mann. Mr. Mann also, wrote and directed the play. The students felt they had benefited from the play. "The experience really helped me when I auditioned for the senior play," said Damon Leal. Another trip the club took was to the snow. Here, they enjoyed having snow fights and riding snowmobiles for a weekend.

Drama clubs membership has declined in the past years. Bill Waldrum, President felt it was largely due to students lacking knowledge in drama. He feared the cancellation of th Advanced Drama class would also hinde the clubs growth. To increase the membership, Bill, would like to hold a rally for the school. "It would be more like a talent show but, without the competition," said Bill. "This might spark other students interest and keep the club alive," concluded Bill.

I.C.C. Coordinates

The Inter Club Council had been reborn after a five year absence. Early in the year, A.S.B. Vice President Rogenia Jackson had found a clause in the schools constitution calling for an I.C.C. "I could see the need for the I.C.C.," said Rogenia. "I talked it over with Mr. Vincent, and he agreed." Rogenia then began to organize the I.C.C.

The council brought clubs and classes together for planning activities. This was evident when more clubs participated in the food fair.

All clubs and classes submit two activity reports each month. This way two clubs can't be selling the same product or have two activities on the same day. If a club missed two of the monthly meetings their funds would become frozen. Overall the I.C.C. turned out to be a great success.

Active CSF Encourages Involvement

The California Scholarship Federation was made up of students that excelled academically. The club's requirements were highly selective, as members had to have strong grades in college preparatory classes.

This year, the main emphasis of the club council was to keep members involved. "Even though most members are very busy with other activities," stated Secretary Kay Braz, "we try to make it possible for all to participate." The club held its meetings before school, offering do-nuts and milk as an incentive to increase participation. In these meetings, the club polled members for suggestions. These meetings were the foundations of all trips and fund-raisers.

The club made plans to attend such amusement spots as Disneyland and Blackbeard's. As tradition dictates, the year was ended with a club picnic as students prepared to enjoy a rest from their studies.

A new wave of ideas hit the Junior State/Model U.N. club, as Johnee Lacy was elected president. He vowed to uphold it's honor and over all insane radicalism. "I wanted people to have fun time, while still giving the club a purpose," stated Johnee Lacy.

One goal of the club was to participate at more of the conferences. Of the 12 people who attended the Fall State in San Francisco, 10 of them spoke in debates. Topics ranged from censorship in school newspapers, to a nuclear retaliation policy. Junior State also attended the Spring State in Sacramento. Here they were exposed to many different views and opinions. "We wanted to try some new ideas, such as, and anti-prom. But, I believe people in Hanford are just too traditional for that," stated Kim DeRemer.

Ski Club Hits the Packed Powder

The Ski Club was this year's newest organization on campus. Organized by fun-loving enthusiastic Seniors, the club, from the start, was bound to be a success. And it certainly was.

Because skiing is such an expensive sport, club members had to work hard to finance their recreation. They raised money by selling baked items and virgin drinks at the Food Fair, by holding a raffle, by washing cars, and by having many bake sales.

During the weekend of February 25-27, some forty members vacationed in Heavenly Valley at Lake Tahoe. While there, they skied, of course, toured Tahoe and, all in all, had a great time. The club also planned trips to Sierra Summit and Mammoth.

Club President Lena Park, pleased with the club's accomplishments, felt that it was important for people to know that, "there is a Ski Club at HUHS which is active, successful and fun."

MECHA Teaches Culture Appreciation

Although small in numbers, the MECHA Club was large in spirit. Consequently, they shared their enthusiasm by holding meetings on both campuses and planning fun activities centered around culture.

Chief among activities was the Chicano Youth Conference. This seminar offered leadership training helpful in furthering Hispanic involvement. The club's agenda also included a dance performance in recognition of Cinco de Mayo and various fund raisers.

Students Flock To See "Bye Bye Birdie"

Hanford High become star struck when "Bye Bye Birdie" was presented as the ASB play. "Bye Bye Birdie," a musical, was written by Michael Stewart. It was loosely based upon the life of Elvis Presley during the time he was drafted into the Army. The play shows how the lives of people are affected when they come in contact with Conrad Birdie.

Albert Peterson, Birdies agent, learns to control his own life and start a new life with Rosie, Kim MacAffee, the girl who is elected to give Conrad "One last kiss," learns all about growing up; while the other girls still faint and scream A a a a a a a . . . when they see him.

The play was an overall success. Mary Montgomery said, "We were like a huge family." Seniors Kay Braz and Janie Thornton said, "The last night of our performance was the sadest, knowing this was our last production here." The audience could be heard singing "Put on a Happy face" as they left the presentation center.

Spotlights Focus On Talented Performers

The annual ASB talent show is a great way for students to show off their various talents. Many of these talents could not otherwise be seen.

This years show, "Entertainment Tonight," was held in the Presentation Center on February 25th. Despite heavy rains that night, over 300 people attended the event. Larry Ross, master of ceremonies, said, "I was really surprised at the number of people who attended."

There was a total of nine acts competing in the five categories. The winners were: Instrumental, jazz band with their melody of songs; skit, Janie Thornton and Tammy Xavier with Camp Granda; Solo, Mary Montgomery who sang school books and pencils; Solo with Accompanist, Jeanette Blankeney and Gwen Smith; and Dance, Sweet Sensation. Between acts the audience was entertained by English teacher Darleen Johnson on piano and, the Drama club did improvisations. The talent show went over well because of its good organization.

Student Finance, In The Money

Hanford High had its own little Wall Street in Room 72-A. Although the Student Finance Office had an atmosphere of cooperation rather than competition, the intensity and importance of the operation was certainly realized.

Financial reports, records, budgets, and pecuniary distribution were typical duties of ASB Treasurer Mike Mayer and Organizations Treasurer Denise Dillon. Mike handled all student body finances, while Denise kept a tally on every club and organization. Additional help was obtained from the advisor, Ed Anderson, and a company of student clerks; Chris Lemay, Rhonda Singletary, Jon Spalding, and Joy Wilson.

The heavy workload often required those involved to spend more than 4th or 5th period at the adding machine; however, the rewards were great, even though they were not monetary. Indeed, the experience gained would be of great use to any aspiring millionaire-to-be.

Under the supervision of Gil Daudistel, club members fought in battles from Early Rome to the future World War III. With the outcome decided by the roll of the dice, history was often changed in a day.

Science Club Takes More Than Mind Trips

"We are probably the most misunderstood club on campus," stated Science Club president Mike Keck. "When the Science Club is mentioned, people think of mad scientists and space cadets. Although that is entirely true, we like to think science is for everybody, and we plan our activities with that in mind," Mike added.

The club had many of such bizarre activities. One interesting field trip was the Fresno State Science Fair. Members were able to watch demonstrations, listen to a lecture on ancient astronomy, and handle exhibits. Such exhibits included frozen flowers, optical illusions, and the real shocker, static electricity. The club also traveled to San Diego for a few days during Easter vacation. While there, they were able to tour the city and its scientific monuments, and the San Diego Zoo.

One highlight of the year was the Science Club Shave-Off. Students contributed money to see their favorite beard removed. Contestants included

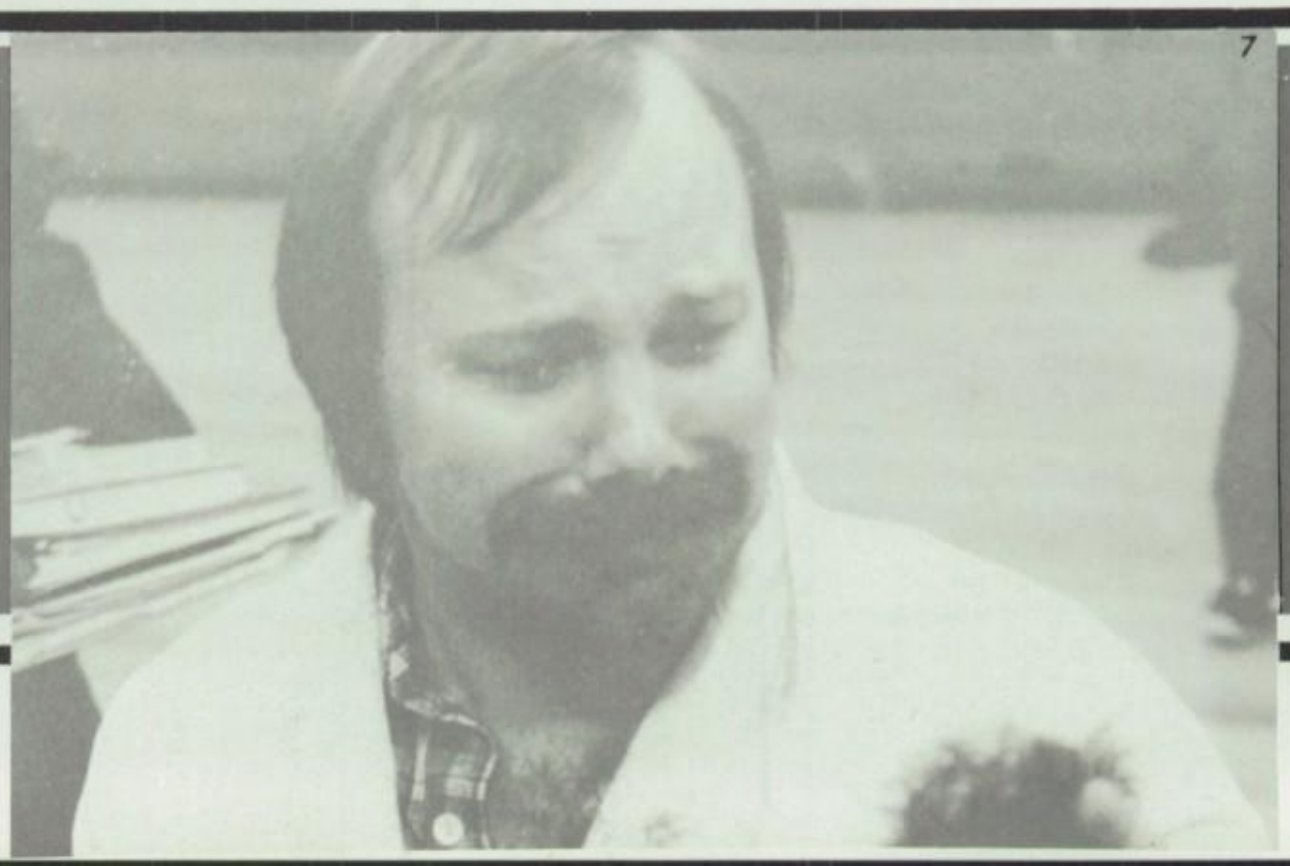
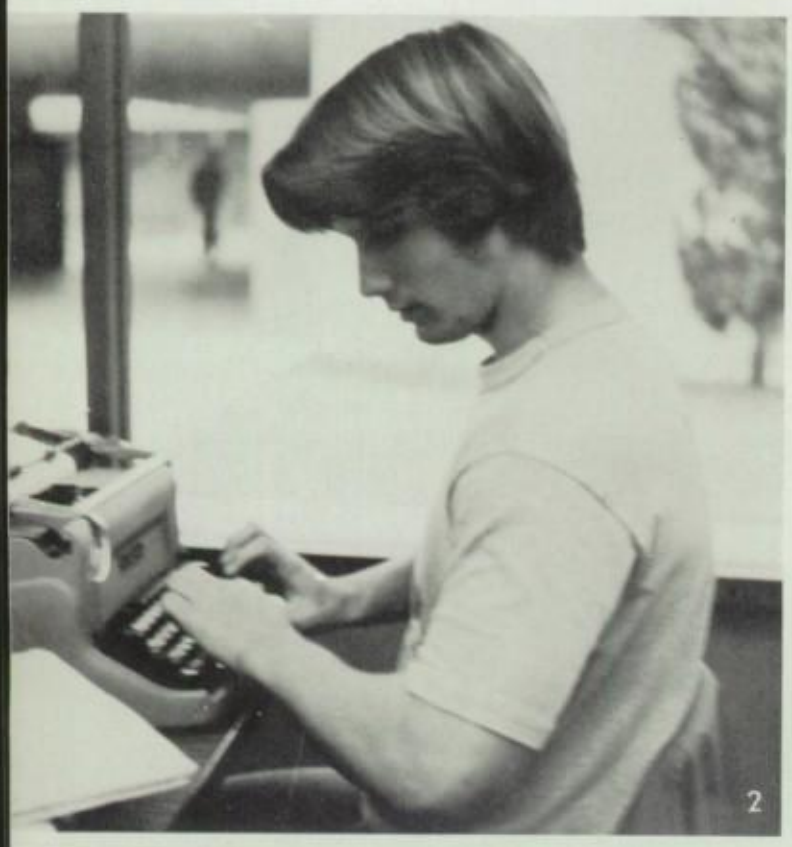
Another money-raiser was the annual hot fudge sundae sale. Members sold these concoctions during snack and lunch. At the year's end, the club awarded monetary scholarships to deserving members entering college.





Meteor, Hanford's Weekly Comet

What would you do with an osculatory labrum? Eat it? Such was a typical question and answer that made its way into the weekly Forum. The Forum was only one of several features included in The Meteor, Hanford High's own newspaper. Students, who were always given opportunities to voice their views, could always turn to The Meteor to catch up on school business and news. Unwary students could often be surprised upon reading "Only at HUHS", as nobody was immune to these clever one-liners. The Meteor also covered elections, sports, competitions, and social events. The Homecoming and Graduation editions were esepcially typical of this organization's extra effort.

Published on Fridays, the Meteor involved more than typing, interviewing, and the frantic rushing to meet a deadline. Thursdays after school, the editors would continue their work as they cut and set at the Hanford Sentinel prior to printing.

Mike Keck, who participated with the Meteor during 5th period in independent study, described the program as being "educational and informative, to the writers and readers alike."

Athletics was a very important subject this year when it came to Hanford High. All of the sports combined worked as a whole to give Hanford High the reputation of a quality athletic system. All of Hanford's athletes were very serious and competitive about their sport. Most seemed to combine "fun" with a serious aspect to make their sport more enjoyable, which enabled some of this year's athletes to take some time off of practice and reveal their true personalities.

Hanford High produced many of the best teams in the valley. "We had a terrific season, one of the best one ever. It was exciting having the title of Valley Champions, but we knew we could do it," commented Varsity Waterpolo member Steve Allen. Many students combined spirit as well as talent by participating in many various interscholastic sports offered at Hanford High. As a whole Hanford did extremely well. Many teams placed high in league but without surprise, many of the teams went on to compete in the Valley Play-offs where skill and teamwork pulled them through many victories.

As in every year at Hanford High participation in athletics is a rewarding experiece for all of those involved.

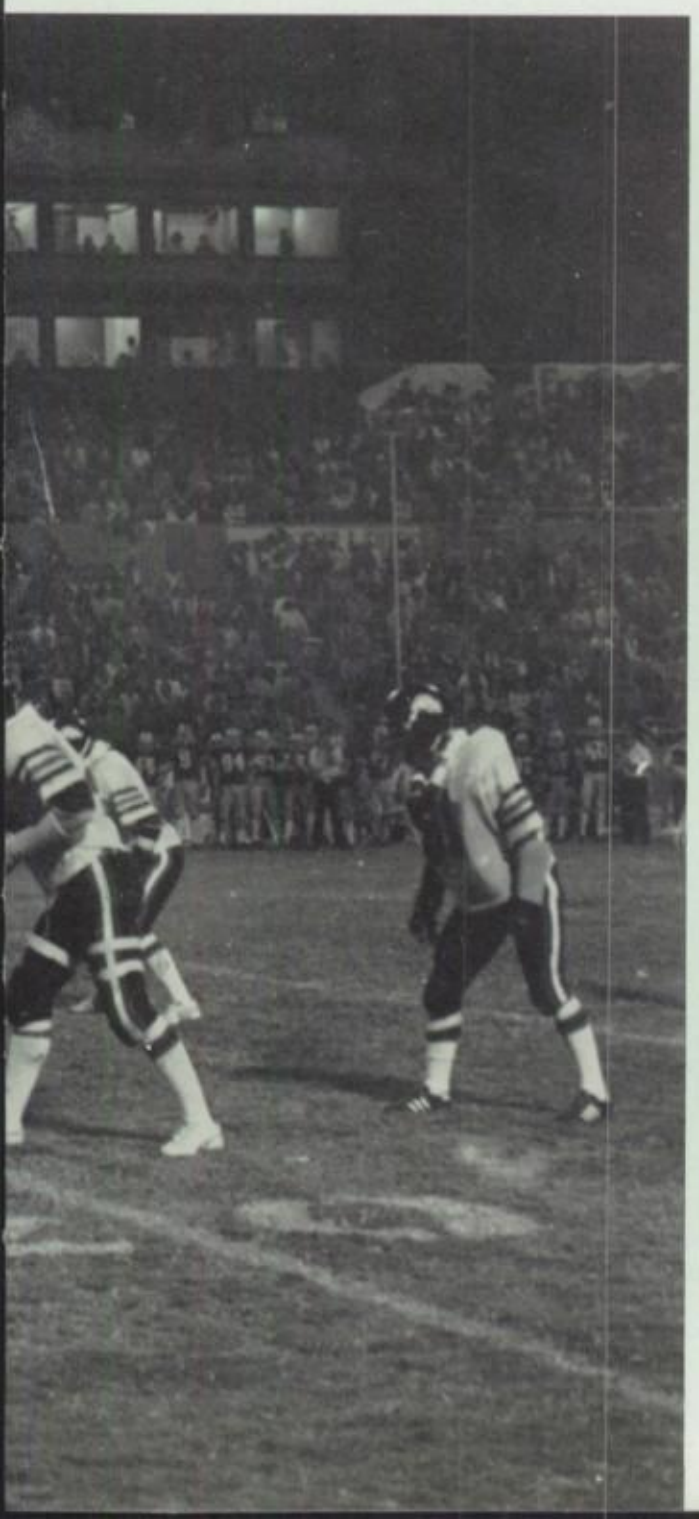
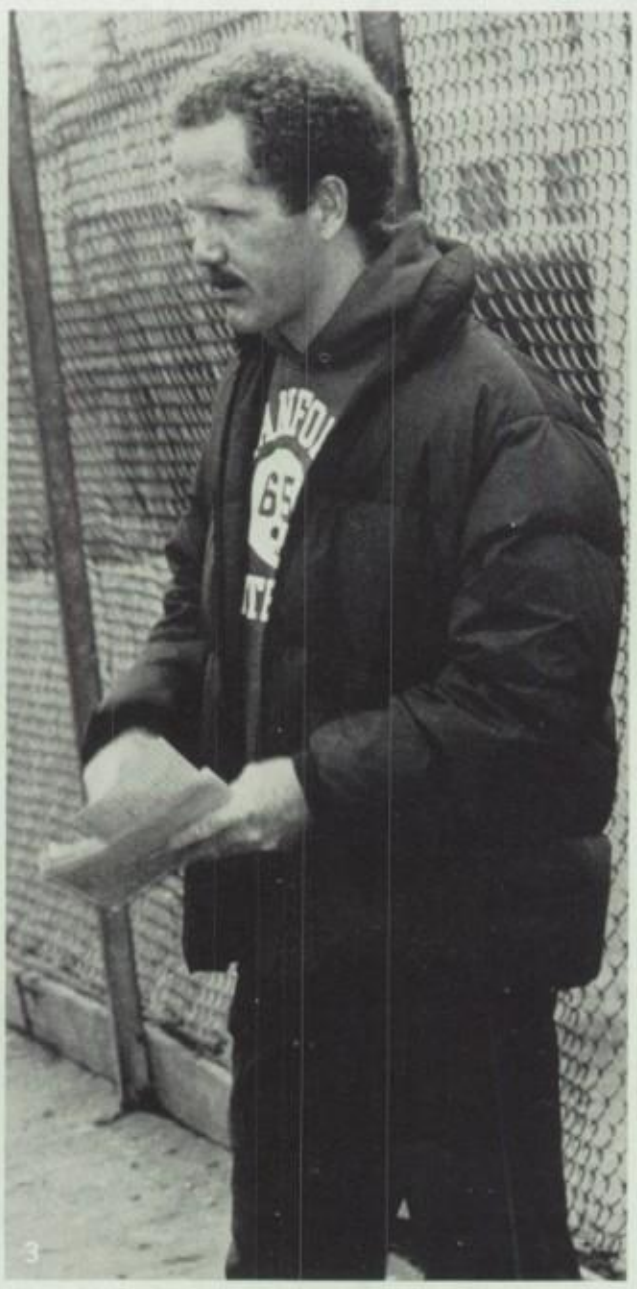
Hanford Second In Valley

"Hard work and perseverance leads to success in any sport," commented Coach Preston. Even though the bullpups had a tough pre-season in which the Bullpups lost to Woodland, Tulare and West High, they played hard and tough and made a tremendous comeback in league play.

The first league game, which was also the Pups homecoming game, was a disappointment losing to Redwood 3-0. With confidence and technique the Bullpups managed to pull through 4 straight league games to capture the title of co-champions along with Mt. Whitney and Redwood.

Although all of Hanford High's games are exciting, beating archrival Lemoore put the icing on the cake, for the Pups. With only 30 seconds left in the game between the Bullpups and the Tigers, Hanford overcame Lemoore with a victory of 13-12, maintaining the Milk Can Trophy for the third consecutive year. The excitement didn't stop with the Lemoore game, the Pups went on to the Valley Playoffs where they tortured Tulare and brutalized Bakersfield. With only one game left to gain the title of Valley Champions the Pups lost to Redwood. Although disappointed the pups lost with pride and dignity.





Varsity Team Talent Promising

Ending with a terrific season, many of the HUHS football players showed an abundance of talent for their future in playing football.

This year's team captains were Seniors Allyn Flores, who was the offensive captain, and Mike Keck who served as the defensive captain. Although Hanford High was not known as a passing team, quarterback Allyn Flores did a terrific job to obstain many victories for the bullpups.

With their tackling ability, they managed to conquer many players on the opposing side in the defense of their team. Leading the offensive side was running back Alvin Horn who's speed and endurance gained many yards for the pups. Other key members were receivers Brent Fowler and Phil Ivancovich.

"We had a good year with many outstanding finishes. We played like we knew we could play," concluded defensive captain Mike Keck.

JV Finishes Third

Talent was the word to describe the 1982 Junior Varsity Football Team. Although their overall record was 4-6, a win was made in the West High Bakersfield game, which was a first.

Mike Roddy was awarded most valuable player, at the Football awards. He gained 1450 yards rushing for the season. He played tail back on offense, and linebacker on defense. Coach Mike Anderson showed support to Mike by appointing him team captain.

Quarterback Mike Feleppa made 1200 yards total in rushing and passing. He also played free safety on defense. Also a team captain, Mike's spirit and skill helped to bring the team together.

Coach Mike Anderson has coached football, as well as other sports, at Hanford High School, during the last three years. He is highly regarded by the players he works with. Coach Anderson stated his goal to be, "Discipline and teamwork are important to prepare the JV players for Varsity." He further reported that, "In most cases this is achieved."

The season ended with a tie in League for third place against Lemore High School. Many of these players will be the strength of the Varsity Team next year.

Freshmen Improves Steadily

The Freshman Football team had an exhilarating season with their overall record for 1982 being 8-2, and 4-1 for league games. They placed second behind the Lemoore Kittens. As the season progressed, the team improved steadily and performed as one unit.

Wayne Perryman showed versatility. He was a wide-receiver and the main-stay of the passing attack. Perryman also played cornerback on defense. Jeff Skaggs, the leading ground gainer on the offense, ran the ball for over 100 yards rushing in several games. Doug Jackson also made his mark as an outstanding ball player. Jackson was also a running back, carrying the ball and blocking well for other backs. Jackson was also a defensive end.

Mark Vincent was the team head coach of Freshman football. He has coached at all levels, at one time or another. Coach Vincent stated that his philosophy at freshman level is to teach the basic techniques so they become automatic. He stressed discipline which is needed to become the best ballplayers possible. Tulare Union and Lemoore were tough; both teams were more physical and larger than the Mutts in size. "We made mistakes that good teams make and that hurt us," commented Coach Vincent. The team leaders for the Frosh squad were Jim Rajskup, Doug Jackson, and Danny Macias (Q.B. until he broke his collar bone). Coach Perkins assisted Coach Vincent, in training the Frosh team. Both coaches remarked that, "They were extremely pleased with the boys and with the season as a whole."

It appears that in upcoming years, the freshman will become true W.Y.L. Champions. Because when the tough get going, the Mutt's get tough.

Varsity Spikes To Play-Offs

This year's strategy for the varsity members was just to play to the best of their ability. Team unity was important. "Even though we had our ups and downs, we basically got along well," commented varsity member Cindy Smith.

The varsity team took second in the West Yosemite League. Their toughest opponent was Reedley. "We played them tough," added Coach Davis. The team lost to Reedley both times but dedication and hard work still qualified them for the Valley Play-Offs.

This year's team leaders were juniors Missy Phillips and Cindy Smith. "We will be a strong team next year since many of the JV members will be moving up and many of this year's varsity members will be returning," concluded team member Cindy Smith.

Future Hopes For Success

Many returning players, show great expectations ahead for the pups.

Frosh-Soph Keeps Team Spirit High

With only one returning player, this year's frosh-soph team had some disappointing moments, but with the teams spirit high they made it through the season.

The frosh-soph. toughest opponent was Reedley, which also proved to be the most exciting game of the season. The frosh-soph team ended the season fourth in the West Yosemite League.

Leading this year's frosh-soph. team are freshmen Tina Nelson, JoJo Rogers and Sophomore Patty Ardema, who was the only returning member.

JV's Take Third In WYL

This years JV volleyball team consisted mainly of sophomores. "Even though the JV's were a young team, they improved steadily," commented Coach Davis. Don Davis also added that all players are key players in volleyball. Volleyball is a complete team game which takes total concentration and teamwork.

Their toughest opponent proved to be Reedley. They lost to them twice. The JV team took third place in the West Yosemite League. This year's team leaders were: Tanya Parker, Fran Sanchez, and Kathy Meyer.

"Most of the returning players will move up to varsity. "1983 will be a great year for volleyball and we are looking forward to it," concluded Coach Davis.

Gymnasts Leap To Third

Gymnastics is a very rigorous sport which requires grace, charm, flexibility. endurance, hard work and most of all talent. This year's varsity members included: Hester Atsma, Julie Ellis, Diana Chin, and newcomer Liz Barajas. These girls put their all into making the team the best they could.

"Lemoore was by far the toughest opponents for the gymnasts," stated Coach Salvador. "Even though, we lost to Redwood and Lemoore, the competition was stiff and we did well against them," commented Julie Ellis.

The varsity members took third place in the WYL. Leading this years team, are members Julie Ellis and Hester Atsma. Hester did very well this year placing eighth in league which qualified her for valley. All the varsity members felt that this year was for fun instead of heavy competition against each other. "We all got along well which is important to be a strong team," commented Diana Chin.

The gymnasts in our area are getting very advanced which is making this sport more complex to coach. Within the past few years, the routines have been changed to suit the capability of the gymnasts. This created many problems because for some of the girls the routines were too difficult and for others too novice. Even though gymnastics has declined at Hanford High, the years which have been put into this sport have paid off. Hopefully, in the future. spectator support can bring this sport back to life.

JV's Beam In League

The JV gymnasts had much to offer this season as there were many returning members who had past year's experience. Nicki Panicoli was one of the leading gymnasts on the team. Her best events were floor exercise and the uneven bars. During the season, Nikki received first all-around in the West Yosemite League as well as many other medals during the season. Other high scorers of the season included; Becky Hanse, Cindy Hanse, Lori Logan and Debbie Jones.

The gymnasts put effort and team work to place second in the West Yosemite League. Their toughest competition proved to be Lemoore. The meet against Lemoore was exciting as the JV gymnasts lost only by a few points. Hard work was put into making their team one of the best in the league.

This year the team felt that the season went by too fast and that there were more meets in which to compete. The season ended up with much accomplished as they were proud to take second place which was the gymnasts goal. "Ellen Salvador is a great coach and has helped us to be the best we could be throughout the season," commented team member Nikki Panicoli. "We all got along well which was an important asset in making our team," stated gymnast Becky Hanse.

Dedication was the strategy which was used by the JV gymnasts. "We practiced hard all season and tried never to give up even when we messed up and wanted to quit, but it was worth all the work which was put in," concluded Cindy Hanse.

JV Wins League

The JV Waterpolo team this year did an excellent job. The team finished with a league record of 8-0 and an overall record of 15-1. The loss was with Clovis West at the Golden West Invitational.

The terrier waterpolo team had outstanding performers. Goalie David Hickey saved 104 balls from letting opponents score. Bryan Cardoza, who proved to be by far the best scorer, made 70 goals throughout the season. Tom Dunn, Casey Holcomb, and Jeff Avila made strong contributions to the defense, while Steve Hamblin and John Lacy were very strong shooters and had good long shot abilities.

The highlight of the season was when they played Redwood in the semi-finals, at the Golden West Tournament. Coach Mark Tunison commented, "We won in triple sudden death. The second overtime David Hickey blocked a four meter penalty shot, and the third overtime Casey Holcomb scored the final goal for Hanford."

When asked how he felt about pre-season play, Coach Tunison stated, "I was pleased with our team beating Mt. Whitney's, Tulare Union's, and Monache's Varsity Teams."

The first step to Mark Tunison's coaching philosophy, was to make sure everybody knew the basics. The next step was to make sure they practice and condition hard so they can play their kind of game.

The team lost mostly starters, but Tunison felt they will have a strong team next year, just as they did this year.

1. Keeping opponent away from the ball is Bryon Westmoreland. 2. Chris Graham (12) grips the ball up high to let Kris Larson have a better advantage of receiving it. 3. Talent Strikes Varsity

"There may never be a team as talented as this year's team. We were superior in all aspects of the game," commented Coach Mac Haines, on his talented team.

Seniors Greg Gamble, Scott Larson, Steve Allen and Eddie Durant, contributed substantially to have that talent.

Eddie Durant, was on the All Valley Team and the All League Team for one year. Scott Larson and Steve Allen were First All League Team players for two years and CO-M.V.P. in Valley for one. They were on All American for one year, and were on the Northern California Team and Junior National Team for one year. Greg Gamble, was on the First All League Team for two years, All Valley for two years - one year CO-M.V.P., All American performers for two years, and was on the Northern California Team and Junior National Team.

The waterpolo team defeated nationally ranked, Merced High School twice, took first place in the Mt. Whitney-Redwood Tournament, placed first in their league and went on to take the Valley Championship. The Bullpups also went undefeated in their 1982 waterpolo season.

Playing as a team and not as individuals, helped take the Bullpups to a Valley victory. Greg Gamble stated, "We have an excellent coach and we play very well together."

Girls Lack One

Getting more girls involved with cross country would have helped the girls varsity team. It takes five members to make a team and the girls only had four. With this problem the girls had to run unattached.

Despite the problem, the team had good runners. Donna Kibby and Casey Daley were key members and gave an outstanding performance. One teammate states, "Donna Kibby is really dedicated and Casey Daley works really hard." Kibby placed ninth at Divisionals and went on to Valley. "All the girls ran hard during practice and at all the meets," commented Coach Cardoza.

The highlight of the season, which was noteably exciting, was when the girls defeated all the Mt. Whitney girls. "Our toughest opponents were Lemoore and Redwood," added Cardoza.

Cross Country Set Mark,

Frosh take 2nd

Discipline and hard work, with a good attitude towards running was Coach Butch Cardoza's philosophy for starting off his new team members.

Striving for a league title, the freshmen weren't disappointed to take second. "Mt. Whitney was our toughest opponent, they had ten good runners," explained Cardoza.

Two of the top runners were Paul Mayo and Jeff Reglani. They helped make the team successful.

"The future for these boys will look brighter if they stay with the sport," added Butch Cardoza.

Soph run to fourth

Running their way to a fourth place spot in league was the Sophomore Cross Country team.

Team leaders were Keith Robinson and Ricky Vidal. They had the best scores and helped the team pace through the season. The rest of the small team included David Martinez, Roger Thornton, and Tommy Parker. They also had good scores and helped the team substantially.

"Lemoore was our toughest opponent. They had five good runners," Coach Butch Cardoza stated.

"If these boys stay with the cross country program, I have future hopes for them taking league next year," added Cardoza.

Bullpups Face Problems

Without a summer program and one coach, it was hard to come out on top. This proved to be true for the Bullpup cross country team, which was not able to place.

Having stiff competition was a big problem, but Coach Cardoza felt Mt. Whitney was their toughest opponent, which had three top runners in league.

"The boys need to have more training in pre-season so they can be competitive," Coach Butch Cardoza felt.

Moving all the way up to the varsity team were freshmen Joey Camara, Louie Gonzales, and Mike Valdez. Mike Valdez, who was the number one runner, gave an outstanding performance throughout the season, with his excellent scores. Eric Roberson, the only sophomore on the varsity squad, received four medals at various meets for running an impressive distant. Juniors; Chris Minsch, Robert Davis, and Pat Wynn, attributed their running abilities to hard work and practice. Senior, Danny Escobar, a four year veteran, ran with experience that helped the squad pull through during the league season.

Giving-up was certainly not the answer. Coach Butch Cardoza stated, "the highlight of the whole season was that the boys improved their times each week."

Having three freshmen, one sophomore, three juniors, plus new comers, next years varsity team should have an advantage to place high. Being a young team they have the experience and the strength to take the WYL title next year.

Cardoza has future hopes for these boys, and all his cross country teams, as they keep running.

Girls Dribble Strong

The caliber of girl's basketball has reached a higher level throughout the years. What made that level higher was the coaching and the girl's effort towards competition.

Although Coach Walt Parker had many talented girls play for him, he put Diane Amy, a three year Varsity member, as the top player. Parker explained, "She held the key to success. She started all the plays and her ability to follow through to the end allowed the other girls to perform." Diane felt Parker helped her with ball handling and shooting techniques; "He taught me to take more time with my shooting and running plays."

Parker felt there was not enough effort put into practice, "Most of the girls on the team were involved in other activities and did not have the time to put in work for pre-season. They could be the best team in the Valley if they wanted to win and to play as a team."

Coach Parker handed out his coaching philosophy to the girls that played on his team, and it went like this: "We believe basketball should be played for fun and you have more fun winning. We believe that hard work is necessary for success. We believe that basketball, along with home, church, and school, gives a player an opportunity to learn about himself. While trying to develop the total player is paramount to our program, helping develop a total person is more important."

Pups Dribble Strong

With a tough league like this year, any team could have won right down to the final end. Some of the teams were tied all the way to the final games.

The highlight of the season was against Lemoore, when the game went into triple overtime. During the first and second overtimes both teams would stall then make a point which made the game a tie. In the final overtime Leonard Baker was fouled, and made the free-throw basket, which led to a victory for Hanford.

"We play to win. The key to winning is to get the team's timing together. If the boys lose, it is more important that they are good sports," pointed out Coach Butch Cardoza.

Cardoza also commented that his team this year is fun to work with and well disciplined.

Pups Have Height and Speed

"The Varsity Basketball Team this year had depth, speed, and good all around height," pointed out Coach Butch Cardoza. These qualities led the boys to a successful 1982-1983 basketball season.

Alvin Horn, Mike Mayer, and Eric Thompson proved to be the best shooters on the team. Cardoza felt they had the ability to make a shot when the basket was open.

Cardoza felt the best rebounders on the team were Leonard Baker, Mike Groeneveld, Philip Ivancovich, and Troy Perryman. All those boys had a great deal of height.

The Poly Wilhelmson Tournament was an upset for the Bullpups. Redwood took first with Mt. Whitney coming in second. The Bullpups beat Lemoore for third place. A special award was given to Mike Mayer for making All-Tourney.

Girls Push Through

The JV Girls Basketball Coach, Doug Fessler, an experienced coach, stated that a late start, made it hard to catch up with other JV basketball teams. All considered, the JV team had a team-building season.

The practices for the JV girls were not easy. "Our practice was devoted to developing and learning fundamentals of basketball, and the coordination of team defense and offense," explained Coach Fessler.

Coach Doug Fessler had commented that everybody on the team was equal, and they each had a responsibility playing on the team and improving their skills as basketball players.

Doug Fessler came to the conclusion that the improvement of the girls should lead the girls to a brighter future.

JV's Unleash Strength

Strength was the word that carried the JV Boy's Basketball team to a successful year.

James Avila and Brian Cardoza were the outstanding leaders on the JV team. "The forward positions were where the strength was. Tim Scott, Bret Stuber and James Avila were those players," explained Coach Paul Hoffman.

Coach Hoffman did not coach the boys alone. Jamie Anderson was his assistant. Jamie Anderson felt the boy's biggest power was that they played as a team. "Team unity is the key to success. If they play as individuals they will lose," added Anderson.

Hoffman preached to the JV boys that if they played aggressive defense all the time, they would become a better team. Hoffman's philosophy was not that alone; "If there is 100% effort all the time, and if the boys still lose, then there is nothing to be ashamed of," pointed out Hoffman.

Coach Helps Frosh To Victory

The Freshmen Boys' Basketball Team felt Coach Tom Gonzalves had helped their team to be one of the best. "He taught me various aspects on teamwork and to have more knowledge about basketball," explained Shawn De Remer. "He brought the team together, and showed us more about defense, rebounding and free throws," added Doug Jackson.

Entering the Reedley Tournament during Christmas Vacation was notably exciting for the first year basketball players. The Mutts captured first, with the Lemoore Kittens taking second.

Beating Lemoore twice in pre-season games, increased their confidence going into league. "We think we can go undefeated," commented the Freshmen team.

The successful Freshmen Boys' Basketball Team had a lot going for them during the league. They worked diligently to become a better team which led them to take league title.

Tenth Straight W. Y. L. Victory

"Hanfords Varsity wrestling had an exploding season," commented Coach Anderson. Hanford went for their tenth straight West Yosemite League title. The Matmen were ranked seventh in the valley, first in league and went undefeated in league matches.

This years best performers were senior Jeff Adams and juniors Bryan Austin and Jon Glass. Jon Glass was nominated outstanding wrestler in the Mt. Whitney Tournament and had the school record of an eight second pin. Jon is ranked second in valley in his weight class. Bryan Austin led the team in pins with twelve of them, and was also ranked second in the valley in his weight class.

Mike Roddy, Vincent Briano and Jeff Tolle were the most improved players of the season.

The Bullpups toughest competition was the match against the Golden West Trail Blazers. The match was won by only three points which depended on the last match. This match proved not only the toughest match but also the most exciting.

Up Coming Sport At H.U.H.S.

Soccer has been an upcoming sport at Hanford High. Spectator recognition helps encourage the players to put their all into the sport.

Some of this year's key players were; Seniors Buddy Brasil, Juan Hernandez, and Furtado, Brian Young and other members who all had good ball control, and, all played well as a team. as a team.

"We had a tough pre-season playing teams from the N.Y.L. We played eight games in two weeks winning six out of those games," commented Buddy Brasil. "Redwood was the pups toughest opponent." "Even though we played tough and won with a score of 2-0, the Rangers were a tough team to beat because they played very physically," commented player George Furtado.

Soccer practices are strenuous. At practice the pups give 100% because striving to be the best takes besides time, hard work and endurance. Effort was a key word for the pups. They must be in shape and keep physically fit through out the season.

Soccer is a fairly new team sport at Hanford High, but in the future soccer will be a much bigger spectator sport.

J.V.'s Work Hard

"The Hanford J.V. Soccer team was very hard working in practice as well as in games," commented Coach Davis. Scott Davis was in his fourth year in coaching the JV. team.

Leading this year's J.V. team were members; Jack Schneider who served as the goalie, Robert Mazuka who played both halfback as well as sweeper, and outstanding defender Tim Parolini.

Although the J.V. Soccer team had an outstanding pre-season, rough spots hit as soon as league began. "This has been a Dr. Jekyl Mr. Hyde season. We won all of the pre-season games including the J.V. Tournament which featured all of the West Yosemite League schools, but luck ran out when league began. We lost to some very tough teams but they were all very close games which could have gone either way," commented Coach Davis.

Throughout the season the Bullpups kept their spirits high and played as hard as they could.

Practice With A Purpose

"Practice with a purpose. Work with intensity to achieve a goal for the day," explained coach Vincent. This year's Frosh team practiced hard to improve their quality of ball play.

Some of the key members of the team were Ryan Bowen, Paul Mayo and David Cook. Bowen's mechanics at pitching led the team to many wins. Several of the ball players will continue on in the program to contribute much to Hanford High's baseball.

Participating in the Tulare Western Frosh Easter Tourney enabled the team to gain experience which was noteably exciting for them.

"Although we were down in members at the frosh level, we did not lack the enthusiasm and had the ability in key positions," added Coach Vincent.

Returnees Strengthen Team

"Dedication and drive determined the successfulness of the season", commented Coach Steffen. The intensity and perfection of the team during practices increased victories during the season.

Senior Diane Amy one of the returning players led the team in RBI's. Other team leaders were Missy Phillips and Richann Moran. Missy returned to the Hanford lineup as short stop and was the teams leading hiter. Proving her strength as second baseman was Richann who was the first four year veteran.

Some of the toughest opponents for the Pup's were Redwood and Lemoore. The Varsity softball team played in their fourth Clovis Easter Tournament where in the past three years has acheived a 7-1 record. "We had a together group of girls who didn't stop at anything", concluded Coach Steffen.

Talent Glitters on the Diamond

A good attitude and a desire to win were the necessary elements for the Bullpups. "The team was the most important concept in being successful," explained Coach Perkins.

Key members of the team were Ed Durant whose talent in pitching led him to be one of the best in the league, Roman Bettencourt with batting capabilities which made the difference in many games and Alvin Horn whose speed, strength and batting aptitudes increased many HUHS wins.

"Hanford will continue to expect greatness out of the players at Hanford High. We had a great season," concluded Coach Perkins.

Old Technique Triumphs

"Our goal at the J.V. level was to prepare as many individuals as possible for varsity. We had 18 girls and every girl played three to four innings regardless to the score. I have used this technique the past few years and it has successfully prepared the girls for varsity play," explained Coach Winfield.

Leading this years' team were members Sabrina Smith, Cindy Medeiros, and Monica Magana who all returned from last year. Each of these girls were very strong in batting.

The J.V.'s toughest opponents proved to be Lemoore and Redwood. "They had a successful season and achieved the goals which were set," concluded Coach Winfield.

Batting Strength Shines

This year's J.V. team had a powerful battling strength. This ability was what captured many league wins. Leading their team in batting was pitcher Reggie Garcia and team members Mike Feleppa and Steve Leyva. "Our team really put in a lot of work to be successful this season," stated J.V. team member Mike Feleppa.

Whatever sport it is, the harder a team works in practice the more determination the team will have to win come game time," explained Coach Gonsalves. His goal for the future is to prepare his players for varsity baseball and give his team a great outlook on the sport.

Many Records Broken

"Our practices are more intense and rewarding than in the past years. Great attitudes were expressed among the team members," commented Coach Haines.

Some of the team leaders included Scott Larson, Greg Gamble, Steve Allen, Chris Graham, Bryon Westmoreland, Kurt Souzs, Dena Nordman, Hester Atsma and Renee Parolini.

The coach qualified more swimmers for valley this year, than in any other year within the past four years. Breaking school records were goals, which the team made and accomplished. Freshman Kristen Larson broke the 100 yd. butterfly in her first meet at Hanford High.

Their toughest competition proved to be Redwood and Reedley. Their techniques and swimming capabilities led them to a victorious season.

Team Effort Put Forth

The Hanford J.V. swim team was a young team which put forth a lot of effort. Their abilities improved as the season progressed.

"It was an enlightening experience for me, members of the team helped me improve my skills," explained exchange student Lilian Alberquerque.

Leading the JV's were members Mike Gaiten, Dan Clardy, and Rosemary Laughlin. "Preparing the team for varsity level was the strategy used this year," explained Coach Tunison.

Their toughest opponents proved to be Redwood and Reedely. Although the teams were tough, Hanford was just as aggressive as any of them, which resulted in a profitable season.

Netters Tough As Ever

Losing seven out of eight varsity tennis players last year, the boys tennis team this year stroked their racquets through league with the same power as last year. Mike Mayer, a senior, was the only returning letterman from last year.

During pre-season Coach Jim Triguerio felt that challenge matches between his team were very exciting. Playing under pressure during challenge matches gave the boys experience.

Redwood and Mt. Whitney turned out to be the Bullpups toughest matches during season. Redwood had six out of eight players returning, on varsity and Mt. Whitney had six returning, losing two foreign exchange students.

Practices were long and hard. They consisted of lots of running that helped the boys be in good condition. "The team had potential. Everyone tried to do their best and they did," noted Triguerio.

Junior Varsity team was for Freshmen and Sophomores getting ready for varsity. "These boys are gaining a lot of experience," explained Triguerio.

Redwood and Mt. Whitney were also the Junior Varsity's toughest opponents. "They had a lot of depth," pointed out Jim Triguerio.

The JV had good sportsmanship and did well in conditioning. "The boys had a lot of desire to improve their game, and they did," commented Triguerio.

New Coach For Girls Tennis

Constant effort and good coaching contributed to a victorious season for the Hanford High Girls' Tennis Team.

Jamie Anderson, a first year coach for the girls' tennis team, worked hard coaching the girls to play their best. "We've never had a coach like Anderson before. He worked us hard during conditioning; we would run, stretch and coordinate techniques. He cared and each girl on the team became more experienced," explained Tiffani Marchbanks.

Redwood and Reedley appeared to be the "Lady Pups" toughest netters. Good coaching and good programs stood behind Redwood. Reedley, having all returning varsity players, had a strong young team.

Tiffani Marchbanks, the number one player on varsity, was the only senior this year. Beth Schafer, Wendy Gundacker, Tammy Vanlaningham and Becky Leal were juniors on varsity, and Becky Maroot and Antonia Lopez were the only two freshmen that were seated on varsity. "I consider being on varsity an accomplishment," added Maroot.

Losing two seniors last year, the tennis team this year was young and had enough experience building on their team to have a successful team. "We are tough enough to give any team a good match," explained Anderson.

With many of the veteran players returning, Hanford High can look forward to a winning tennis team in the years ahead.

Runners Measure Distance

Measuring themselves during the early track meets to determine their strength, the track team found themselves coming on strong towards the WYL Championships.

Dwight Ellis, Jimmy King, Marcus Washington, Bobby Tealer and Danny Escobar gave the opposition team a lot to worry about this year in relays and sprinting events. Joe Berberia high-jumped in the 6ft. range, and Mike Keck and Tim Randall did an excellent job participating in the shot put. "There was a lot of competition among the long-jumpers and triple-jumpers. They consisted of Allen Oakley, Shawn Clement, Brent Fowler, Steve Erwin, Joe Berberia and first year Sean Ford. Also, a lot of competition in the hurdles and distance events," added Coach John Clark.

"I found very good varsity team leaders in Mike Keck, Tim Randall, Jimmy King and Danny Escobar. They worked very hard," replied Clark.

A very good group of Frosh-Soph members will give next year's team a strong chance to be successful.

Jay Ellis, a very fast sprinter, helped the varsity at times this year; David Medrano was a good middle distance runner; Donnell Neely had strength in the long-jump event; Ron Keck threw the discs very well; Darrin Houston and James Brooks ran the best of their ability in the relays.

Clark felt he found leadership from Jay Ellis, Eric Escobar, David Medrano and Ron Keck.

"I felt that this group of Frosh-Soph boys could develop into a very good varsity team with continued hard work, determination and good team attitudes," stated Clark.

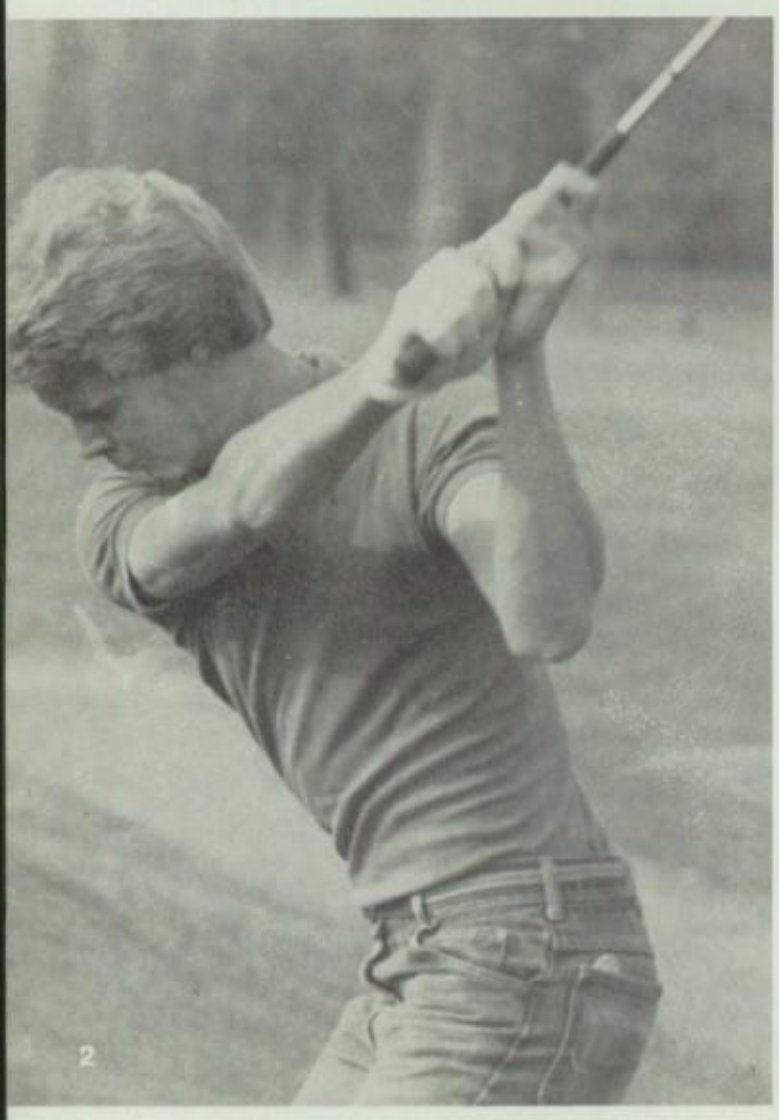
Girls Lead With Power

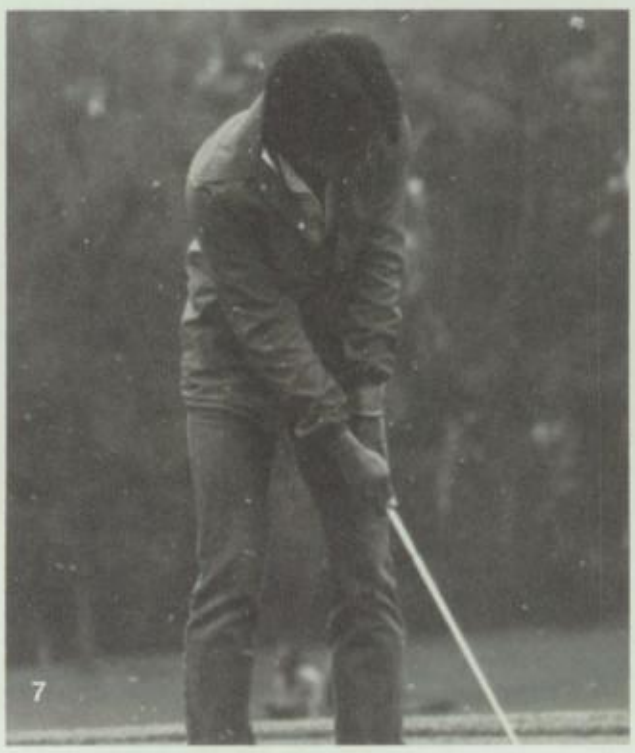
Led by a powerful sprint and a long distance squad, Hanford's Girl Track Team looked forward to a good season. "We worked hard this year to develop a better team attitude and to provide an environment that would stimulate hard work," stated Coach Clark.

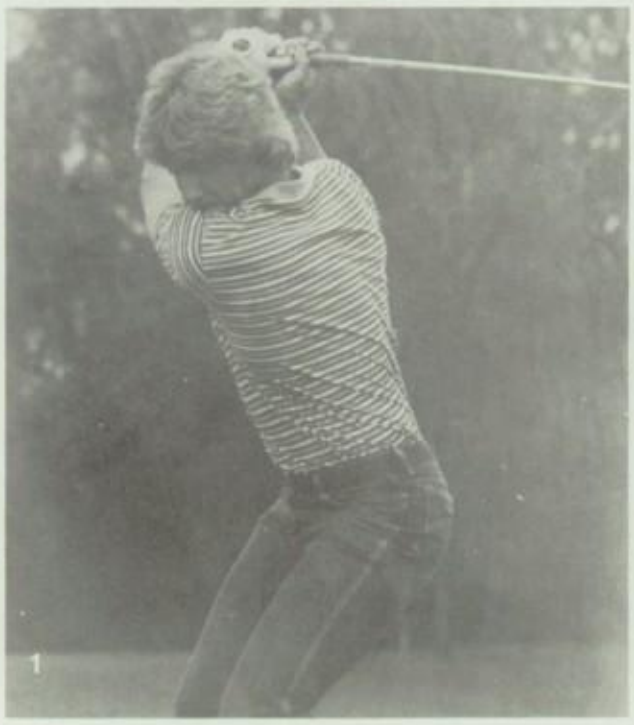
Hope Williams and Darlene Smith were the key members on the team. Hope Williams was a good sprinter and she also competed in the triple jump event. Darlene Smith did very good in the high jump event and did well as a sprinter. Coach Clark added, "Hope and Darlene will provide a good young group of girls with good leadership through their hardwork and accomplishments."

Delores Medrano, Gwen Smith, Lowanda Martin will be very good runners in the future. Caroline Jackson, Kasaundra Warren and Joel Scott performed well in the field events. Clark felt they provided a good foundation for other girls in the future.

"I would like to see a better turnout of girls next year. There are a lot of quality girl athletes in Hanford - more need to participate," added Clark.







Golfers Golf To Par

"Trying to bring out the best in each student - hoping to teach them something that will help them later in life," was Coach John Jennings' philosophy on teaching golf.

Allyn Flores, a senior, played Number One for the Varsity Golf Team. "Allyn was the team leader. He practiced all the time and the team looked up to him because of his skill in golf," replied Coach Jennings. Senior Scott Crewse and Junior Danny Estrada did extremely well playing in the low 40's. "We had six players that shot 45 and shot less than 45 when they continued to practice," explained Jennings.

Since Mt. Whitney's and Redwood's golf courses are close to their town, it was easier for them to practice. Hanford's golf course is out of town and the boys don't get out there as often as they would like to (not including practice). That led Jennings to believe Mt. Whitney and Redwood would be tough.

A positive outlook oversees the golf team. "We have a good group this year," stated John Jennings.

1. Allyn Flores expands his motion. 2. Scott Crewse taking a swing. 3. Golf Team (kneeling) B. Integrity Establish's Outcome

"The team really pulled together as a group. They dove as one unit and not individuals," explained Coach Kudrna. Experience was the key to success of the divers. There were many new comers to the team and each of them dove with the grace and integrity of winning.

"We realized that the diver's scores added with the swimming scores to establish the final outcome and we had to do our best," commented Dana Keirn.

"Some of this year's leading divers were Dana Keirn, DeeDee Barker, and Debbie Jones. Lonnie Desazier was also an exceptional diver.

Although the team had a new coach, they worked hard and did well. "This young team has a great future ahead of them," concluded Coach Kudrna.

Leaving their mark. Throughout the year the faculty and the administration have left their indelible mark on the students of Hanford High. It was through their help and guidance that students were able to realize their potentials, to set goals, and to plan their dreams for their futures.

The administration left their mark through decisions that would change school policies and that would affect students at Hanford High for many years to come. Two of the policies were the new attendance policy and the new athletic policy.

The new attendance policy limits students' absences to ten a semester. The policy was an extension of the tardy policy instituted last year.

The new athletic policy established that students not doing well academically would not be eligible for participation in extracurricular activities.

The administration and the faculty were not the only ones to leave their mark at Hanford High. Students from the classes of '83, '84, '85, and '86 left their mark in academic achievements.

Agriculture Continues Success

The Agriculture Department underwent no major changes this year as circumstances had basically stayed the same from last year. No classes were dropped, but sections were eliminated due to budget cuts that were made by the school. The department adjusted in spite of the consistent money problems.

This year, as in the past, the Agriculture Department had many talented students that continued to make Hanford High proud. The department's activities, including the incomparable FFA organization, helped to alleviate the current budget problems by their continued success. "Students have continued to be successful in local, regional, state, and national competitions," commented Department Chairman Leonard DeRuiter.

An addition to the department this year was the arrival of an Apple IIe computer. Mr. DeRuiter was excited about the addition as this was a step forward in student usable equipment.

Art has Great "Expectations"

"In a time of budget cutting and lack of financial support from the state, it is getting harder and harder to maintain a good art program," stressed Dave Krouser, Art Department chairman at Hanford High.

Budget cuts in the school's finances indirectly affected the Art Department as there was one less teacher this year. Krouser stated that the department functioned with the same budget that it had during the past few years, but inflation took its share.

The department managed well and displayed its talented students in an art show called "Expectations '83". The art show ran from April 17th until the first week of May and was sponsored by Hanford High's Art Club and Imperial Savings. Besides Hanford High students, Corcoran and Lemoore High students participated in the event. The Kings County Art League donated the "Grand Best of Show" prize of fifty dollars.

Computers Overrun Business

A major development in Hanford High's Business Department this year was the addition of a Word Processing class. Funded through the Kings Regional Occupational Program, Word Processing is a two hour class that exercises the use of word processors and electronic typewriters. Students enrolled in this class learn the basics of word processing, which is "text-editing". Prerequistites for the class included a grade of a "C" or better in a high level English class, such as College English; or in a Shorthand class.

The presence of two Apple IIe computers, that were made available to business students this year, allowed them to learn how to operate them. Ed Anderson, the Business Department chairman stated, "The use of computers will become more and more prevalent in our business classes." Access to computers will help ready students for careers in advanced business areas, stressed Anderson.

Homemaking Cooks Up Food Service

"We prepare our students for everyday living by teaching practical skills along with those needed for entry-level jobs," stressed Consumer Homemaking Department Chairman Marilyn Pereira. A major element that aids this preparation is the new Food Service class. This is a two-hour class that trains students for entry-level jobs that range from cashiers to kitchen helpers in convalescent homes. Training includes in-class studying as well as on-the-job training.

"The Bullpup Inn" is a well known part of the Consumer Homemaking Department. Students in its classes have the opportunity to plan, prepare, and serve four to six luncheons per year.

Marilyn Pereira's department offers classes in other areas related to Food Service. Included are Clothing, Child Development, Family Life, Consumer Education, and Foods classes that are thought of as beneficial to students who plan to raise families later in life.

Scarcity of Supplies and Teachers puts Strain on Dept.

Cuts in Hanford High's budget have been responsible for the alterations in the English Department this year. Classes were larger this year due to the fact that there were two less teachers. "A few more students in a class can make it seem as if the walls are closing in," commented English teacher Del Hern on the increased class sizes. Money problems effected English materials as there were only class sets of texts, rather than a book for each individual student, being used in most classes, except for the literature study classes. Also, with no secretarial help available this year, it was difficult to get materials typed; the department had to rely on student aides, FBLA volunteers, and the teachers themselves. Because of possible further budget cuts in staffing, the department expects to have extremely large classes next year.

However, it plans to offer the same types of courses, just fewer sections of them.

This year, Composition/Speech II and Forensics were two classes that were eliminated due to low sign-ups. The latter possibly was due to the fact that, since Speech was no longer required, those who could benefit the most from this class were too afraid to enroll. Also, at the end of this year's first semester, Advanced Drama was dropped. Besides budget cuts, a lower student enrollment this year may be a reason why so many English classes were dropped.

"Because the members of the English staff seem ever ready to share ideas, lend materials and provide a sympathetic ear, the teachers have been great to work with. Without the support they have lent to each other, the burdens of larger classes, the lack of secretarial assistance, and the scarcity of supplies could be a real strain on what sanity we have left," commented Sylvia Huntington, the Chairman of the English Department on the sacrifices that the department had to make this year.

Language Faces Hardships

The Foreign Language Department underwent various changes this year due to Hanford High's budget cuts. Much to the department's disappointment, German I and Portuguese I were among the victims. Students who signed up for these classes had the choice of French I, Spanish I, or no foreign language at all.

Luckily, no teachers in the department lost their jobs because of the budget cuts. Since there are so few foreign languages this year, these teachers had to teach in other areas in which they were qualified.

"This year went fairly well; we continued to teach Spanish I-4 and French. There were a few students involved in Independent Studies for Portuguese II," stated Jerome Herbeck, Chairman of the Foreign Language Department.

Next year should be tougher for the Foreign Language Department, but it plans to keep up its spirits and continue to provide the best opportunities for the students. There are many unanswered questions about the future, but there are plans being made to improve the present situation.

HUHS I.A. Department Superior

Most of the changes in the Industrial Arts Department this year have been in teaching assignments. The moves evolved around the retirement of Ted McCoy, who was previously the Department Chairman and drafting instructor. McCoy was replaced by Lyman Gorrell. Various teachers have been shuffled from campus to campus to adjust.

Another big change this year was the elimination of the I.I.P. (Intro to Industrial Processes) program that was for entering Freshmen.

"For years we have been recognized as having one of the most outstanding Industrial Arts programs in the Valley. If the programs were to be delineated due to a lack of funds and overloading of classes, students would be the ones who suffer. I.A. classes work best under individualized instruction, and with such overcrowding, this is almost impossible," stated Lyman Gorrell, Dept. chairman.

P.E. Keeps the Ball Bouncing

"There is a significant number of seniors at Hanford High who are taking P.E. compared to the number of seniors at other schools," P.E. Department chairman Judy Lockhart stated proudly.

Lockhart attributed this significance to the fact that a large variety of activities are offered even though there are fewer teachers. Fewer teachers means fewer periods of each activity that is offered. Lockhart stressed that the department has done its best in keeping as many activities as possible with what teachers it has.

The P.E. Department offered activities that range from those common ones, such as softball and volleyball, to the more unusual such as golf and cross-country skiing. The most popular activities that the P.E. Department offered for its students are racquetball, tennis, and volleyball; with aerobics and jazzercise becoming more popular this year.

Apples Survive as Inflation Takes a Bite

"We have the personnel to teach the various levels of mathematics, we just need the proper computers to teach with," stated Herb Barry, the Chairman of Hanford High's Math Department. He stressed the need for more advanced equipment for all math classes.

The addition of two Apple IIe computers this year helped to satisfy this need as the department previously had only four TRS-80 Radio Shack computers. With access to these more advanced computers, Hanford High students were able to learn how to operate them as well as learn to modify and write mathematical programs.

Mr. Barry felt that it is extremely important for students these days to become familiar with computers and also stressed that although the Math Department has two new computers, more are desired, especially if the department's student enrollment remains as large as it has been in the past few years.

Science Looks Forward to Challenges

The return of Al Moore and the addition of an Apple IIe computer were two developments of the Science Department this year.

Al Moore returned after a year and a half absence during which he continued to work toward his Master's Degree in Engineering. He taught at Earl F. Johnson High School as well as on the West Campus.

The Science Department received an Apple IIe computer this year. The computer is used to aid in teaching in the Science classes.

Basically, the department's curriculum has remained the same except for the removal of the Anatomy and Physiology class. Concentrating on the remaining classes, Harold Mackey, Science Department chairman, stated, "We look forward to new challenges and programs in our Physics, Chemistry, and Biology classes as they should do well in preparing students for technical careers."

Social Studies Looks Toward the Future

Hanford High's Social Studies Department underwent a few major changes this year as its teaching techniques and the materials that were used changed because of budget cuts. Changes included dropping some of the topics in the courses, using the "lecture" approach rather than handouts and discussions, and an emphasize on audio-visual techniques.

After a four year experiment, the department discussed with the administration a change in curriculum that would begin next year. U.S. History would become a year class at the Sophomore level, then it would be moved to the Junior level. Civics would also become a year course at the Senior level, with World History becoming a year course at the Sophomore level. This change would take four years to complete if the administration approves the plan. "I'm hopeful that the cirricular changes that we're proposing are accepted by the administration and Board, as the need to beef up the Social Studies curriculum for all students is obvious," stated Rod Althouse, Chairman of the Social Studies Department.

Superintendent and Board Govern Hanford High

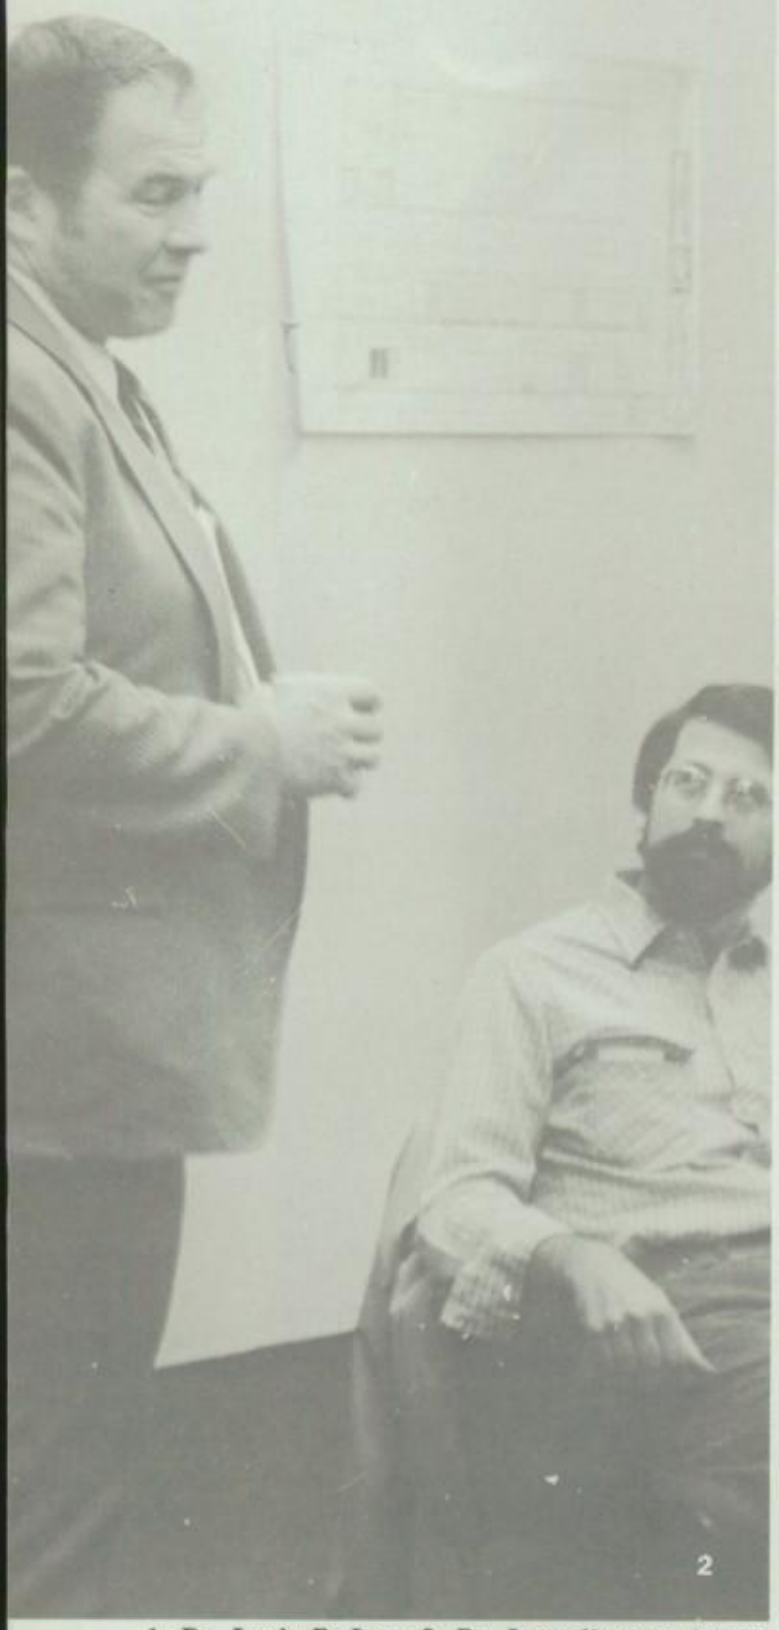
Lacy Succeeds:

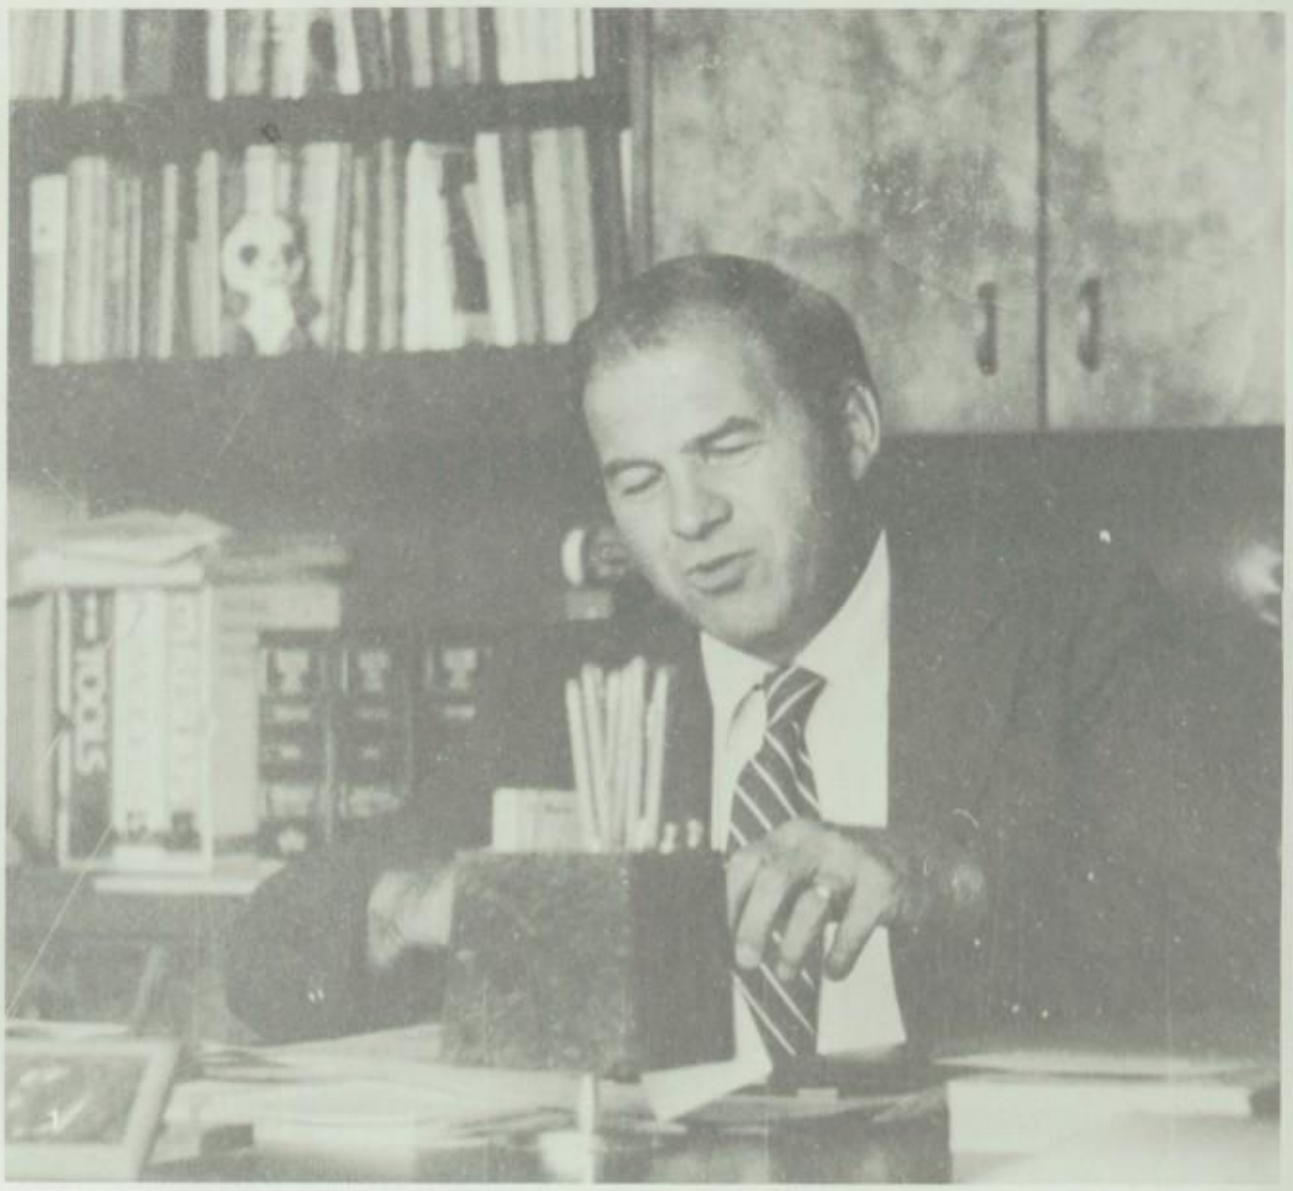
Dr. Leeds R. Lacy felt his second year as the school district's superintendent, was even more successful than his first. He contributed this to the fact that he was now more familiar with the district's staff and students.

"I am proud to be associated with a school as successful as Hanford High. The staff has always been cooperative and easy to get along with; they were a big help to me," commented Lacy.

Dr. Lacy works closely with the students. He has been seen walking down the hall, talking with students, or even teaching a class. "I really enjoyed teaching Mr. Barry's math class, but I always seem to confuse everyone," stated Lacy.

Before becoming district superintendent, Lacy was a teacher for another school district. "I never expected to be in charge; it was and still is a challenge," stated Lacy.





1. Dr. Leeds R. Lacy 2. Dr. Lacy discusses issues with Rod Althouse. 3. Student Body President Arthur Leon and Ron Loewen consider an issue at a board meeting.

When asked about the closed campus policy Dr. Lacy said, "There is a chance of closing both campuses or just the West, if the complaints from the public continue. I feel that as long as the students take the responsibility of acting like mature adults, they should be treated as such."

"The tardy policy this year is working out very well; the rate of tardies has gone down tremendously," commented Lacy.

Dr. Lacy stated, "Hopefully with the staff and class cutbacks, the school district won't be in as much of a financial bind as in the past."

Board Cuts Back

This year, Junior, Linda Martin, student representative, sat in on Board meetings as a non-voting member. "She was very helpful in discussing several issues including the drug and alcohol policies," observed Dr. Leeds Lacy, superintendent.

Due to a lack of money the Board was unable to appoint people to new jobs. As a money saving action, the Board was saddled with the task of deciding who of the personnel would have to be laid off. As a result of the Board's decision, nearly 50 employees were laid off last year. Some were hired back as vacancies occurred during the school year.

Career Center Undergoes New Plans

"We've coordinated the two Career Centers so that students will be able to take advantage of a complete career program," stated Lucille Bean, Career Center technician.

This year the Career Center instigated a new program that enables students to use the Center constructively for all four years of high school. Students were given a folder their freshman year that included pamphlets with topics such as; "Career Interest Survey," and "College Information."

Nancy Harley, career technician on West, and Lucille Bean arranged a mock job interview workshop for students. The workshop was conducted in the cafeteria on the West campus and the library on East. Local businessmen were asked to conduct the interviews.

During the year Bean and Harley coordinated meetings for career technicians all over the valley.

Business Office Makes Changes

"We've had no problems, just inconveniences this year. We will probably have more problems in the future because things have a tendency to pile up. We have less time to scrutinize the workings so more little details slip by," explained Joanne DeBoer, account supervisor.

There were major changes in the Business Office this year due to cutbacks in its staff. The responsibilities of the Business Office were then divided among the various departments within the high school.

The Business Office though is continuing its basic function at Hanford High; the handling of all money transactions for Hanford High and the District (Over six million dollars was handled through the Business Office last year). The money was used for such things as the employee payroll and bills of all kinds.

The Business Office also handled all purchase order requests, all financial budgeting and state reports.

Administration Loves to Help the Students

"Something exciting often happens. The job of principal requires monitoring of all aspects of the school's operation," commented Phil West, Principal of Hanford High School. Nevertheless, he enjoys his work.

Phil West was principal of West Campus from 1964 to 1979. He was then asked to oversee both campuses. Prior to 1964, Mr. West taught Social Studies and found it rewarding, especially Civics. He would like to teach again, but is very content where he is right now. When he gets the opportunity, he attends classes just to observe what students and teachers accomplish.

Another part of Phil West's job was to be a curriculum leader of the school. He helped to advise the staff on course content, as well as to assist in obtaining materials.

West had concentrated this year, on preventing money shortages in the future. He reported that he has staff support in many of his efforts. He stated that the staff may have to be cut in order to balance the budget for the coming school year. This may result in the reduction of services to the students and facility.

Nurses and Counselors Ready to Assist

Nurse Does "Physical"

"It's been a challenge." said Nurse Barbara Van Baren of her job as Hanford High's resident nurse. Van Baren provides health care for students of both East and West campuses. Van Baren was kept on her toes by doling out aspirins, bandages, and validating clearance cards for the approximately 58 students she sees a day.

Van Baren was assisted in her work by Assistant Nurse Suzanne Skaggs. Due to the lack of nurse's aides Van Baren was forced to commute from each campus in order to fully keep tabs on developments at each school.

As part of the responsibilities that Van Baren faces every day, checking up on seriously ill students at school and occasonally at home took up some of her time. She must also at times make sure that the student was continuing his follow-up care.

Both Van Baren and Skaggs enjoyed working at Hanford High.

East counselors Ben Maes, Alice Des Jardins and John Rauch. 6. Guidance secretaries Linda Cotta, Carey Vander Tuig and Jean Tome.

Advisors Count Credit

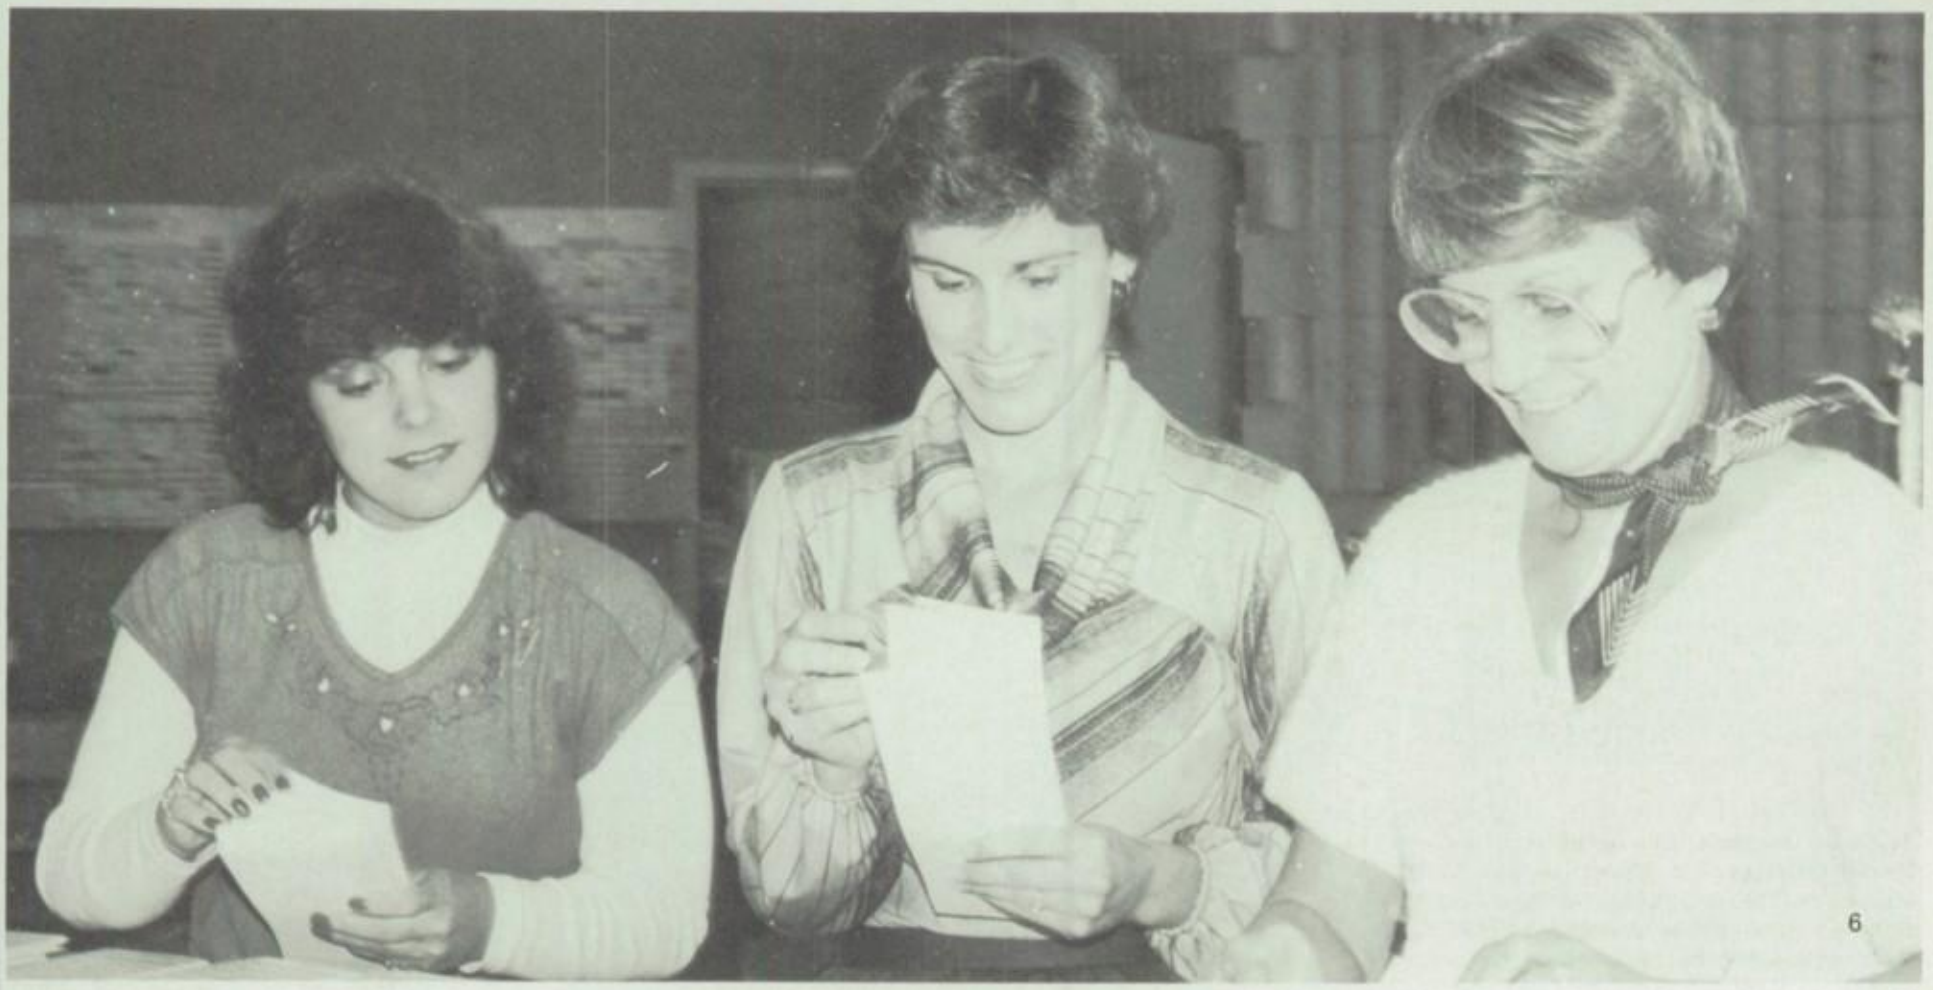
"I think Hanford High has outstanding counselors who have a good understanding of the students' personal as well as educational needs," observed Gerald Van Soelen, Director of Guidance.

The East and West counselors' job was to advise each student at Hanford High on selection of his classes. Each counselor must also make sure that each student has completed the required amount of 220 credit units to graduate.

Counselor John Rauch who was in charge of the college preparatory students and Alice DesJardins, counselor for senior students, also had the added task of ensuring that their students make the entrance requirements for the various California colleges and universities.

The counselors on West campus were in charge of counseling the bewildered freshmen and their parents as to which classes the student should take. That job also included reviewing the students achievement on the CTBS test which is intended to place the student in classes that fit his academic ability.

Van Soelen's job was to monitor the guidance services to students through the help of the counselors.



Cafeteria, Library Make Radical Changes

Cafeteria Carts Lunch

"We lost twenty to twenty-nine thousand dollars last year. Food service has been losing money for the past several years, like most other school cafeterias," explained Bob Davis, Assistant Principal and Cafeteria Administrator.

The administration considered the amount of money lost to be an unacceptable amount. Therefore, radical changes had to be instigated in the program to insure its continued existence at Hanford High.

"We had the most problems with the new system in ordering the food, getting the best deals and making sure that government regulations were followed," recounted Davis.

Library Adds Video

"We aid students in finding materials for their research projects and supply teachers with films, filmstrips, VCR's and projectors," stated Betty Stewart, head librarian. "We are finding it harder to keep up with requests since we are so understaffed this year," added Stewart.

As the librarian for both East and West campuses, Stewart has had decrease of her staff due to the layoffs of aides that took place last May. Only Assistant Librarian Aldine Rapozo and Library Aide Judy Tunison were left to do the work necessary to keep the libraries running smoothly.

Federal funds, under ESEA, Title IVB, were used to expand the video department of the library. Through the use of a camera and recorder, sports events and school productions, such as the ASB play, were recorded and played back for the students. In this way they could improve their techniques. Stewart plans on continuing to expand the video library content.

Driving and Custodial Jobs Curbed

"Working with seven less people on the maintenance crew made it extremely hard for the rest of the custodians to keep the campus as clean as we would like it," recounted Bob Olson, head of buildings and grounds.

Because of Hanford High School's budget problems, much of the maintenance staff had to be cut in order to save money. Among the positions cut were the jobs of four custodians, two "Skilled" maintenance people, and one gardener.

In spite of the fact that there were less people on the maintenance crew, the custodial jobs throughout the campuses got done. They were getting done slowly but they were getting done. Olson was also pleased that the teachers aided the custodians by keeping their rooms cleaner and erasing their own chalkboards.

This year more than ever, the students were encouraged to use the trash cans located at various spots on campus.

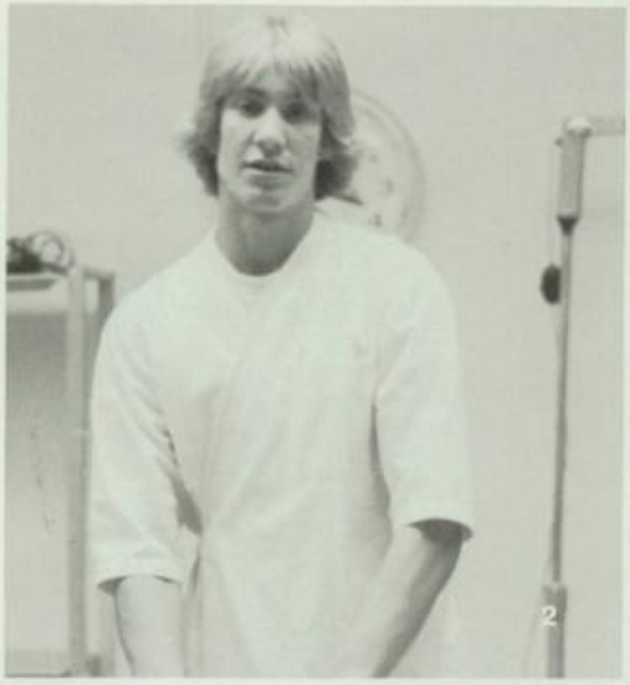
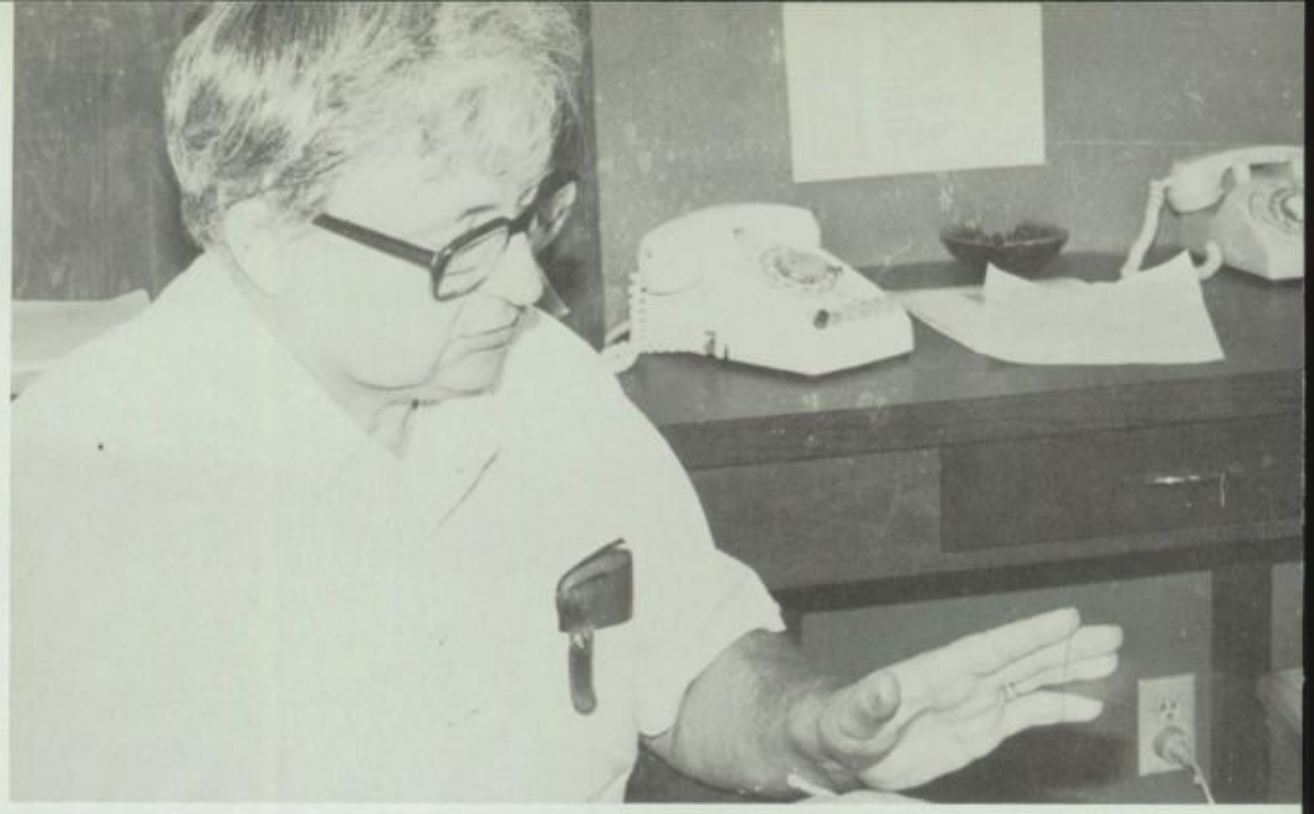
During the year the transportation department was given a lucky reprieve from the hectic confusion of "foggy day" schedules. Throughout the year not one "foggy day" was called to the chagrin of the students who appreciated the extra hour in bed that the schedule would have provided.

The drivers in the school's fleet of buses also served as the main mode of transportation to all school related activities as well as their traditional use as transport to school.





Work Experience and Aides Willing to Help Students

Experience Helps

Howard Sands was in charge of a program that gives the students a chance to earn extra class credits, and establish experience background for the job market.

Work Experience was a good opportunity for students to learn the skills of job training and also to see what they would like to do with their future job life. The student who does not have a job and does not have experience; often finds it hard to find a career.

"Students in this program were only allowed so many hours to work, but it is a good opportunity for the students to get an idea of what the working world is like," Sands observed.

Sands is very delighted that Work Experience was here for the students. He also enjoyed his work here at Hanford High immensely.

Aides are Helping

"It changes every year and you also meet many people each year," stated Simon Lakritz, head of Federal Projects.

Mr. Lakritz got his start as a teacher and has taught all the history courses except for Civics. He started teaching in 1958 and nine years later was appointed head of the Federally Funded Programs at Hanford High.

His job was to supervise and evaluate all the federally funded programs. He also assisted the school in obtaining new funds for needed school projects.

Lakritz appreciated all the staff he worked with. While the staff cut was hard on him and the other people who work with him the program has continued. Lakritz hopes that tax-cuts will not continue next year. He would like to get more aides for the teachers so they would not have to work as hard to get everything organized for each class. The tax-cut really hit hard on the Federal Aides Program. Over half the aides lost their jobs, because of the tax-cut.

He really enjoyed his work here and would not trade it for anything. "Well, maybe I would like to be a teacher but even that would not really convince me to change my job," stated Lakritz.

Adult School And Special Ed Teach Skills

Special Ed Aides Kids

"I feel that we have an excellent program because we presently have the best special education teaching staff attainable," explained Edwin Curtis, Special Education administrator.

Eight teachers and eight aides as well as three part-time aides work in the Special Education program which is designed to assist students with identified learning disabilities.

Somewhere between 125-150 students are enrolled in the program during regular school hours. Their disabilities range from those who have only mild learning disabilities to those who have severe learning problems.

The Special Education program was unable to expand in any way this year because the State mandated the size of the program. All of the elementary and high schools in Kings

Adult School Enlarges

"The Adult School is doing excellent this year even though the Average Daily Attendance (ADA) is less than last year due to cutbacks in the Kings County Employee Training Agency program (KCETA)," explained Al Tolle, Adult School Principal.

The Adult School is upgrading and expanding the welding classes in its curriculum due to increased enrollment in the class. "Some people are here to obtain their welding certificates. We even have some experienced welders taking the class to improve their skills," observed Mr. Tolle.

This year the Adult School added new classes; a parenting class, Lamaze classes, a job search/career change program, and a pre-nursing class. The classes were added as a result of increased interest in those subjects. At the same time other classes were dropped because of a lack of enrollment.

The Adult School is for those eighteen years of age or older who have not received a high school diploma or who want to train for a job in special vocational area.

EFJ Has Budget Woes

"Some of the objectives of the Hanford Continuation Schools are; to help students know themselves and understand their relationships with others; to develop understanding and performance of basic life skills which will assist them in acquiring entry level job skills; and provide an opportunity to acquire a High School diploma," stated Don Null, Principal of Earl F. Johnson Continuation School, during the day.

Earl F. Johnson school fulfilled many of its objectives by offering classes in small engines, welding, agriculture mechanics among other things to prepare the student for life in the "outside world". Principal Don Null indicated that the school would endeavor to keep the same schedule next year but that Earl F. Johnson's budget woes would make the effort extremely difficult.

When asked to comment on Earl F.

Johnson's money problems, Principal Don Null replied, "We were effected just as Hanford High. We will have to reduce some programs next year, but we will still offer a program which will allow students to complete their High School program.'

As a continuation school, Earl F. Johnson's student enrollment varies during the year. Last year (1981-82), a total of 380 students were enrolled throughout the year. This year 140 to 150 students were enrolled at Earl F. Johnson at any given time during the year. The student populace also included an average of 10 students who were enrolled as independent studies students.

Earl F. Johnson also sponsored night school for some 30 to 40 students during the year. The Earl F. Johnson night continuation school was presided over by Principal Gerald Theodore whose duties mirrored those of Principal Don Null.

CLASSES

Classmates Enjoy

With creativity and great enthusiasm Hanford students accomplished remarkable tasks, which will be acknowledged for years to come.

The Senior class displayed their talents in many ways. Their new and unique design for painting the bowl, enchanting winter formal, spectacular performance in Homecoming and all around enthusiasm will be forever remembered.

The Junior class joined in the fun with fundraisers, an exciting Jr/Sr prom, and a variety of other activities.

As Sophomores the class of '85 added life to Hanford High with the foot-stomping Sadie Hawkins dance, and the Valentine Dating game.

Freshmen were off to a good start, their participation in activities was outstanding. Through tying for the spirit stick during Homecoming week, participating in Senior Slave Day, and doing an all around great job in keeping school spirit up, the Freshmen will definitely be remembered by their upperclassmen.

The school year 1982-83 seemed to be a year for much excitement and enthusiasm for every individual student as well as the student body as a whole.

Many seniors found it hard to believe that their High School years were coming to an end so they put extra energy into making their last year the best.

The students of Hanford High truly did a great job during 1982-83 year, and etched a deep mark in the hearts and minds of those who knew them.

Seniors Fun-loving

This last year, 1982-83, the Seniors put a lot of effort into making their senior year the best. They had fund raisers to make money for the Senior Dinner and "gag" awards at the end of the year. They raised $329.00 through the Senior Slave Day; they also put on the Winter Formal in December. They earned extra money with bake sales, food fairs, and Santa, Valentine, and April Fool grams. "We've worked really hard so that we could enjoy the activities at the end of the year," says Lena Park, Senior president.

The Seniors showed spirit during "Homecoming" with their winning float, which declared, "Kill the Rangers with Extra-strength" - a "pun" on the Tylenal poisoning in Chicago. They also won first place with their skit entitled "Family Fued", starring the "Redwood Winers" and "Hanford Bullpups".

The Seniors ended the year in black and red as they headed toward future goals.

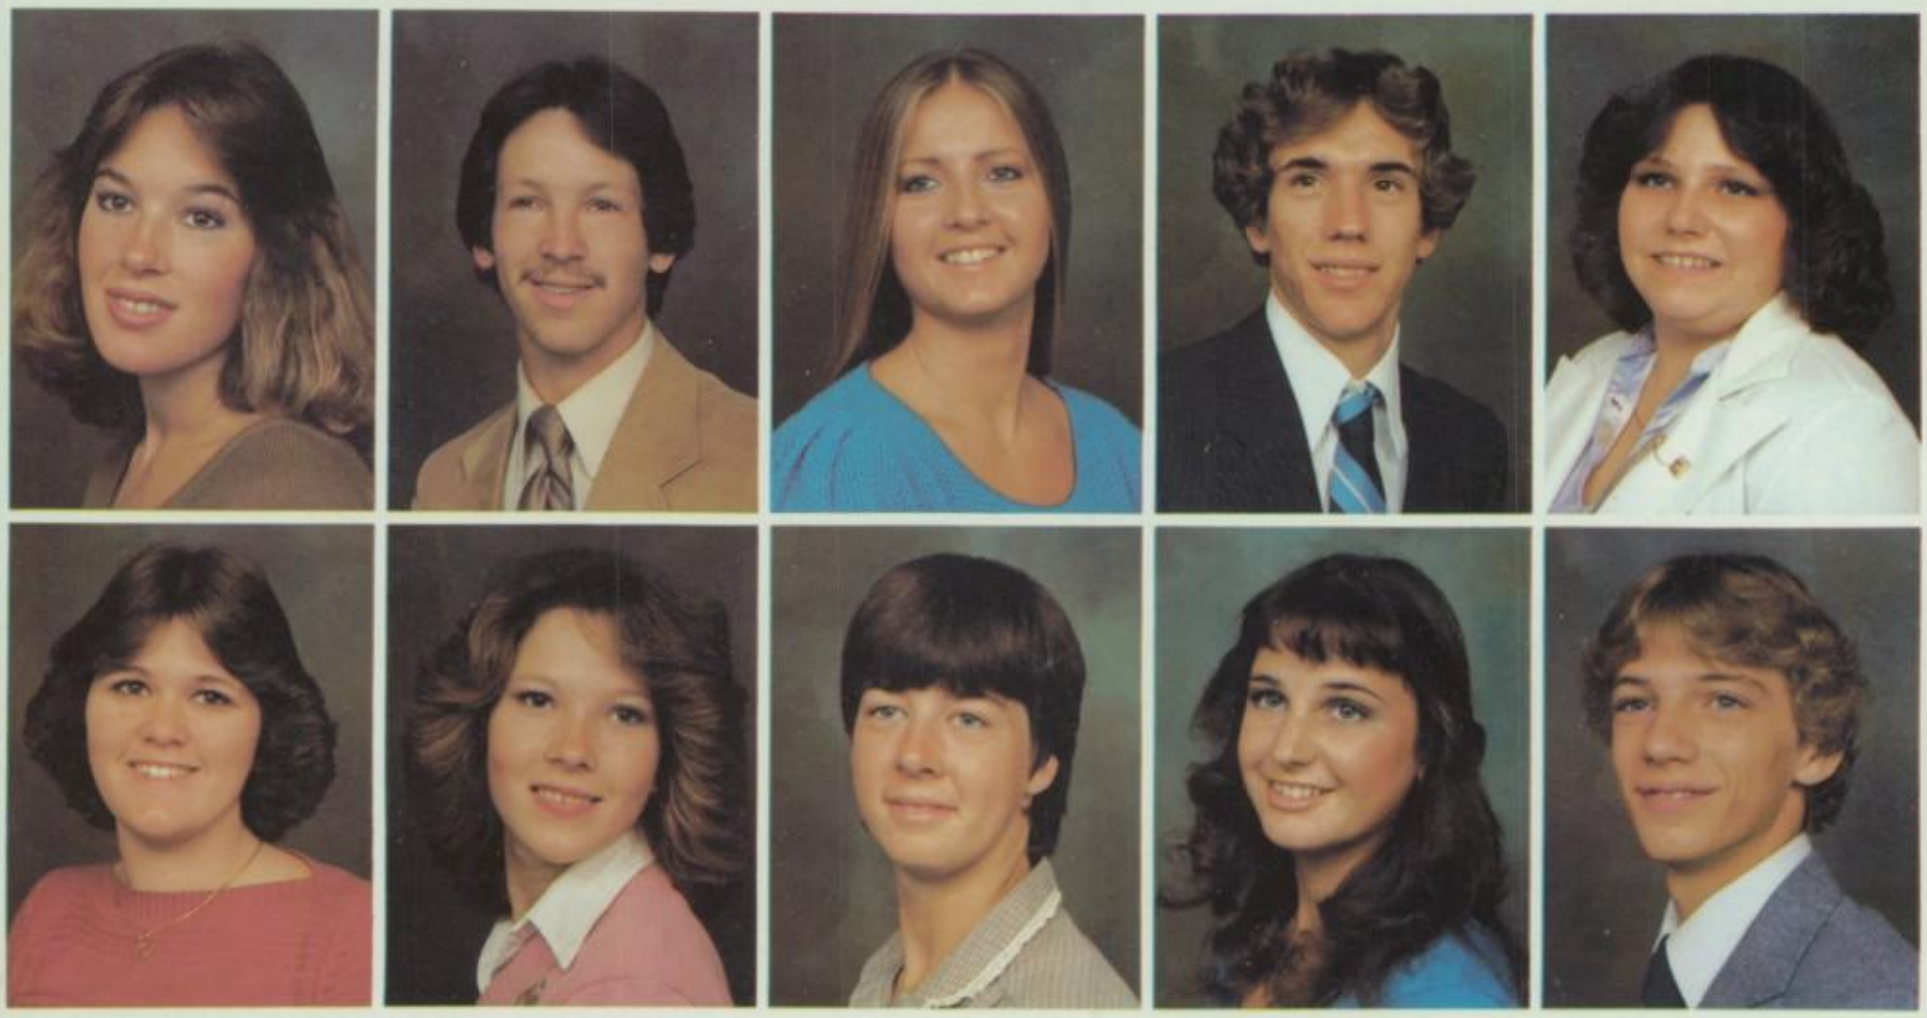
Barajas And Flores "Look so Good"

For the school year 1982-83, the Senior Class selected Liz Barajas and Allyn Flores as "Best Looking" seniors at HUHS. Looks aren't everything to them; they both were active in school activities.

Liz, in addition to being attractive, contributed to Hanford High by holding the position of Sports Editor on the Janus staff. She also participated in gymnastics, swimming, and cheerleading.

Allyn kept up his physique by being active in sports. He played football all four years, and was quarterback and co-captain of the football team during his senior year. He also earned his fame in golf. Allyn was the number one golfer in valley, during his Junior year, and continued to swing his way to victory in his senior year.

Both Liz and Allyn left a charming aura in the memories of the Hanford High campus.



"Most All-Around" Lead The Way

Many students were involved in extra-curricular activities at school. Since Lisa Loogman and Mike Keck were particularly active, they were chosen by the Senior Class as "Most All Around".

Lisa Loogman took an interest in a great many school activities throughout her four years at HUHS. She was active in sports such as basketball, track and volleyball. She also was part of Student Government all four years. On top of extracurricular events, she kept up with school; Lisa is a life member of CSF.

Mike, had little time to waste during High School. He kept himself busy with many events. Mike played basketball and football, and in his senior year he was co-captain of the football team. He also broke records in shot put during track season. But sports wasn't Mike's only interest, he became active in the "Meteor", the Science Club and the Math Club. In addition to all these achievements, Mike has maintained a 4.0 GPA.

With little time to spare, Lisa and Mike have made the most out of their High School years.

Seniors Show Fitness To The Fullest

Athletics was important to many students at Hanford High. A special interest in sports and hours of practice helped Hope Williams and Alvin Horn to excel at their particular sports. Because of their achievements in sports throughout the school years Hope and Alvin were voted "Most Athletic" by the Senior Class.

Hope was active in sports all four years of high school. She played volleyball and basketball, and ran in Cross Country and track. Through the years she proved her skills to her coaches, teammates, and opponents.

Alvin has left his mark at Hanford High through sports achievements. He displayed his talents on the football field, the basketball court, and the baseball field. He has earned considerable recognition in all three sports.

Both Hope and Alvin have been honored with the "Bullpup-of-the-week" award.

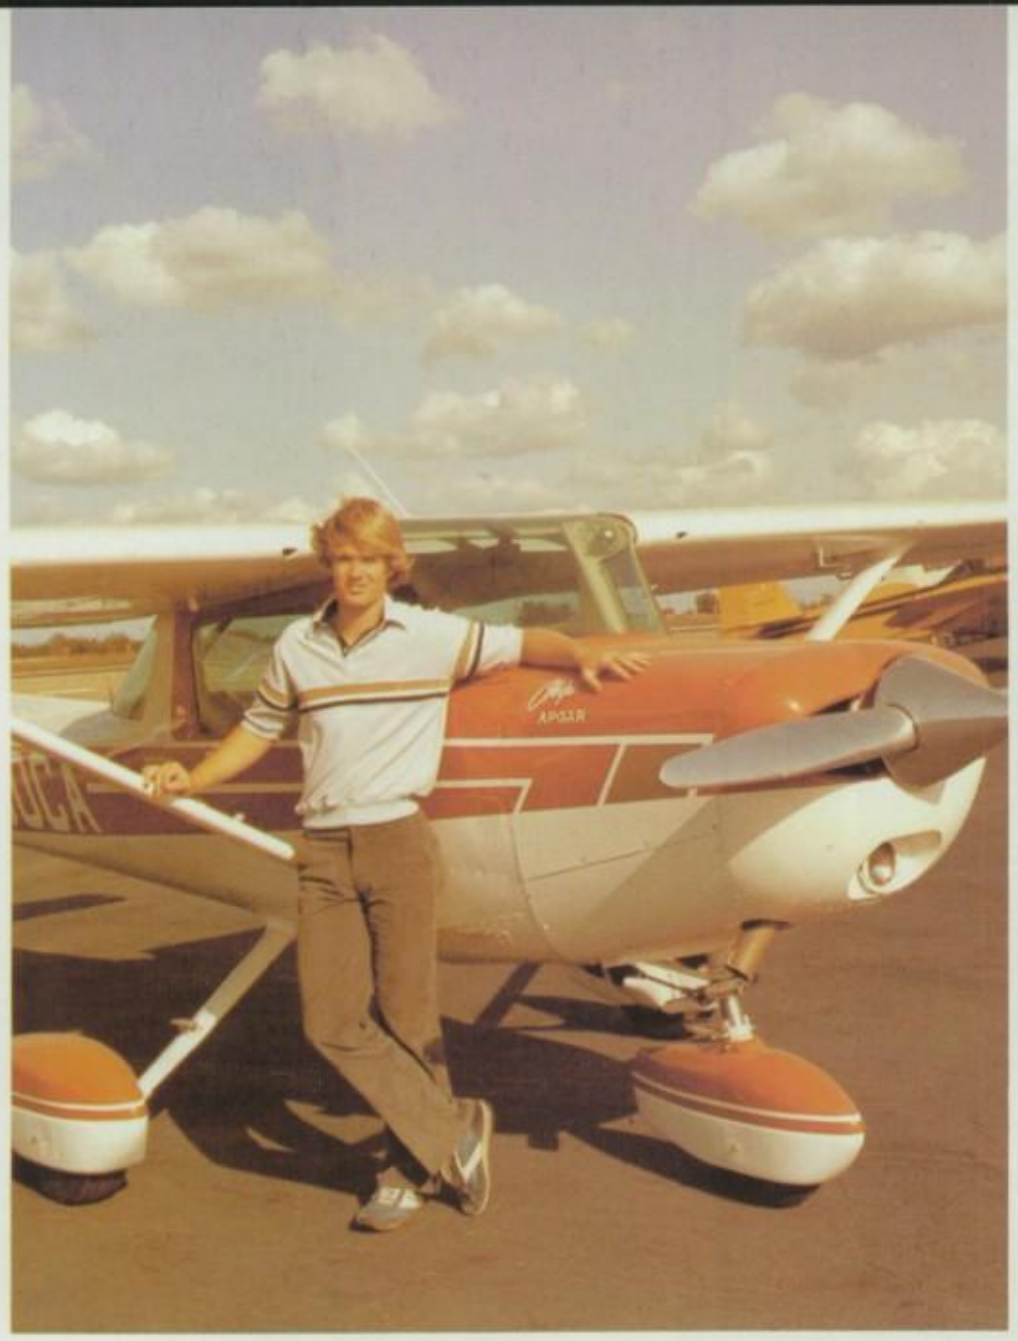
The Shy And Mighty

Everyone is shy once in a while, but in every school there are a couple of people which show shyness in an extreme way. The Senior Class voted Diana Alvarado and Andrew Lee as "Most Shy" at HUHS.

Diana, in her own quiet way, has participated in school activities. She worked as a staff member on the Janus, and she also joined FBLA, Future Business Leaders of America, during her junior year. Diana was a member of CSF, California Scholastic Federation, all four of her high school years.

Andrew took an academic role in our school. He was a member of the Math Club and Science Club, since math and science were two of his specialties. Andrew has maintained a 4.0 GPA, and consequently he is a life member of CSF.

Both Diana and Andrew were a blessing to each teacher they had, since it's not too often that a quiet and hardworking student comes along.



Apgar is Flying High

"When I was a little boy, I was really interested in planes," states Chip Apgar, "I'd read books about them all the time." Chip didn't stop with just being interested: when he was 11 years old, he started learning to fly. Two weeks later his dad bought him a plane. Ever since he has been enjoying the thrill of flying.

Chip's first solo flight was at the age of 14. Since then he's gotten his Private Pilot license, Pilot's license, and Multi-engine license. Now he is working toward an Instrument Ticket.

"Flying is really exciting! When you're up there by yourself, you feel free. There is no one to tell you what to do," Chip says with a pleased smile. "The most exciting part is flying in the clouds; you feel like a bird."

"Flying isn't dangerous. It is the people in the other planes that can be dangerous," Chip adds with a concerned look. Chip is serious about flying; he emphasizes, "Flying is hard work. A good pilot has to be well informed, alert, and ready for any problems."

Chip tells of his most frightening experience with seriousness, "We were caught in a thunder storm, and the plane was covered with ice. Lightening was striking near us. The propellars lit up like they were on fire!" he recalls, "it was only 'Elmo's Fire', caused by static electricity."

Chip has flown throughout western U.S., but his most common trip is to Las Vegas. With such an impressive talent, there is no limit on how far Chip can go.

Style And Fashion Is Their "Thing"

Through the school year, styles and fashions changed. Lisa Vierra and Lance Pulliam were noted for their good taste in clothing. The Senior Class selected Lisa and Lance as "Best Dressed" because of their ability to keep up with the fashions.

Lisa kept a busy schedule and she did it with style. Her schedule included Ski Club and Student Government.

From his "Izod" shirt to his "Top Siders", Lance was known for his charm and style. Lance also took an interest in basketball.

Lance and Lisa are remembered for adding "a little class" during their years at HUHS.

Seniors Show The Promise Of The Future

This year the seniors at Hanford High have selected Gail Eberly and Arthur Leon as the students who are "Most Likely to Succeed". During their years at Hanford High both Gail and Arthur have been involved in many activities concerning the school.

Gail was the Classes Editor for the Janus, and a life member of CSF. She also played tennis. Gail's future plans are to go to college at California State University and major in Physical Therapy.

Arthur has been sophomore, junior, and senior class presidents. He has been involved in many clubs and was selected as a "Homecoming King" candidate. Arthur plans to pursue a career in Law.

Winks And Smiles Are Their Speciality

On any day you could have seen Jill Baze and Steve Simas spending time with a variety of people around campus. Because of their outgoing personalities and extreme attraction to the opposite sex, they were chosen as "Most Flirtatious" by the Senior Class.

Jill Baze was active in school, which gave her a chance to meet new people. As Janus Assistant Editor, she has learned responsibility and authority. She was also active in gymnastics, track and swimming.

Steve Simas was well known throughout the campus for his "close up" smile. He was seen walking about sending a "Hello" in all directions with an added wink for the girls. Steve hasn't shown interest in extracurricular activities, but he has shown his enthusiasm from the sidelines.

Jill and Steve both added a little excitement to the school campus.

Smiles Impress Students at Hanford High

There were certain people that can be counted on to always say "Hello", smile, or just wave to everyone. Their almost unfallable friendliness was the reason that Jennifer Lee and Jeff Tolle were voted by the senior class as "Most Friendly".

Jennifer had met many new people through all the clubs in which she was active. She was in Student Government, AFS, and Ski Clubs throughout her four years in High School. She was also active in 4-H and FFA.

Jeff's friendliness radiated farther than just on campus. Jeff was involved in sports and clubs around school. He played tennis, wrestled and ran Cross Country within his four years at HUHS. He was also active in FFA, holding the position of vice president during Junior year. Jeff was a member of the FFA State Championship Cotton team in 1982.

Seeing Jennifer's and Jeff's smiles around campus made school more fun.

Nelson Goes Pro

"I like the feeling of competition and racing for money," states Mark Nelson about motorcross racing. Mark raced about every weekend, usually on Sundays. In the process he earned around $600.00 a year.

Mark became interested in motorcycles at an early age. He began to ride at the age of five and was competing by the time he was 11. His older brother races; his father, who used to race, now coaches him.

Racing requires hard work and a lot of time. Mark usually practices at Jackson Ave. and 16th. with his brother. He averages about six hours a week. In addition he must constantly maintain his motorcycle so that it will be in top condition.

Most of the races take place in the Sacramento area or the Los Angeles area. Since the races are usually so far away, Mark sometimes sleeps outside or in a tent to cut costs. As Mark laughs, "Motorcycle riders are tough!"

There are two types of races; scrambles and motorcross. Mark began racing scrambles which are on a smooth, round track. Later he switched to motorcross races. The motorcross courses range in size, the number of jumps, and the overall roughness of the terrain. Often the courses can be dangerous.

Mark's worst race occurred when he was 15. There were about 30 participants in the race, and Mark was starting towards the front. A rider fell in front of him, causing Mark to fall, and two riders ran over him. He suffered bruised kidneys and was in the hospital for a week. In spite of this Mark doesn't think about wrecks during a race. "You've got to concentrate on the race and not think about other things." In fact the combination of quick reflexes and complete concentration has probably saved him from many accidents.

"Last year I won the CMC Championships; that was my biggest race," commented Mark about his achievements. Although he plans to continue racing, Mark isn't definite about the future yet. With his devotion and ability, Mark is sure to go far.

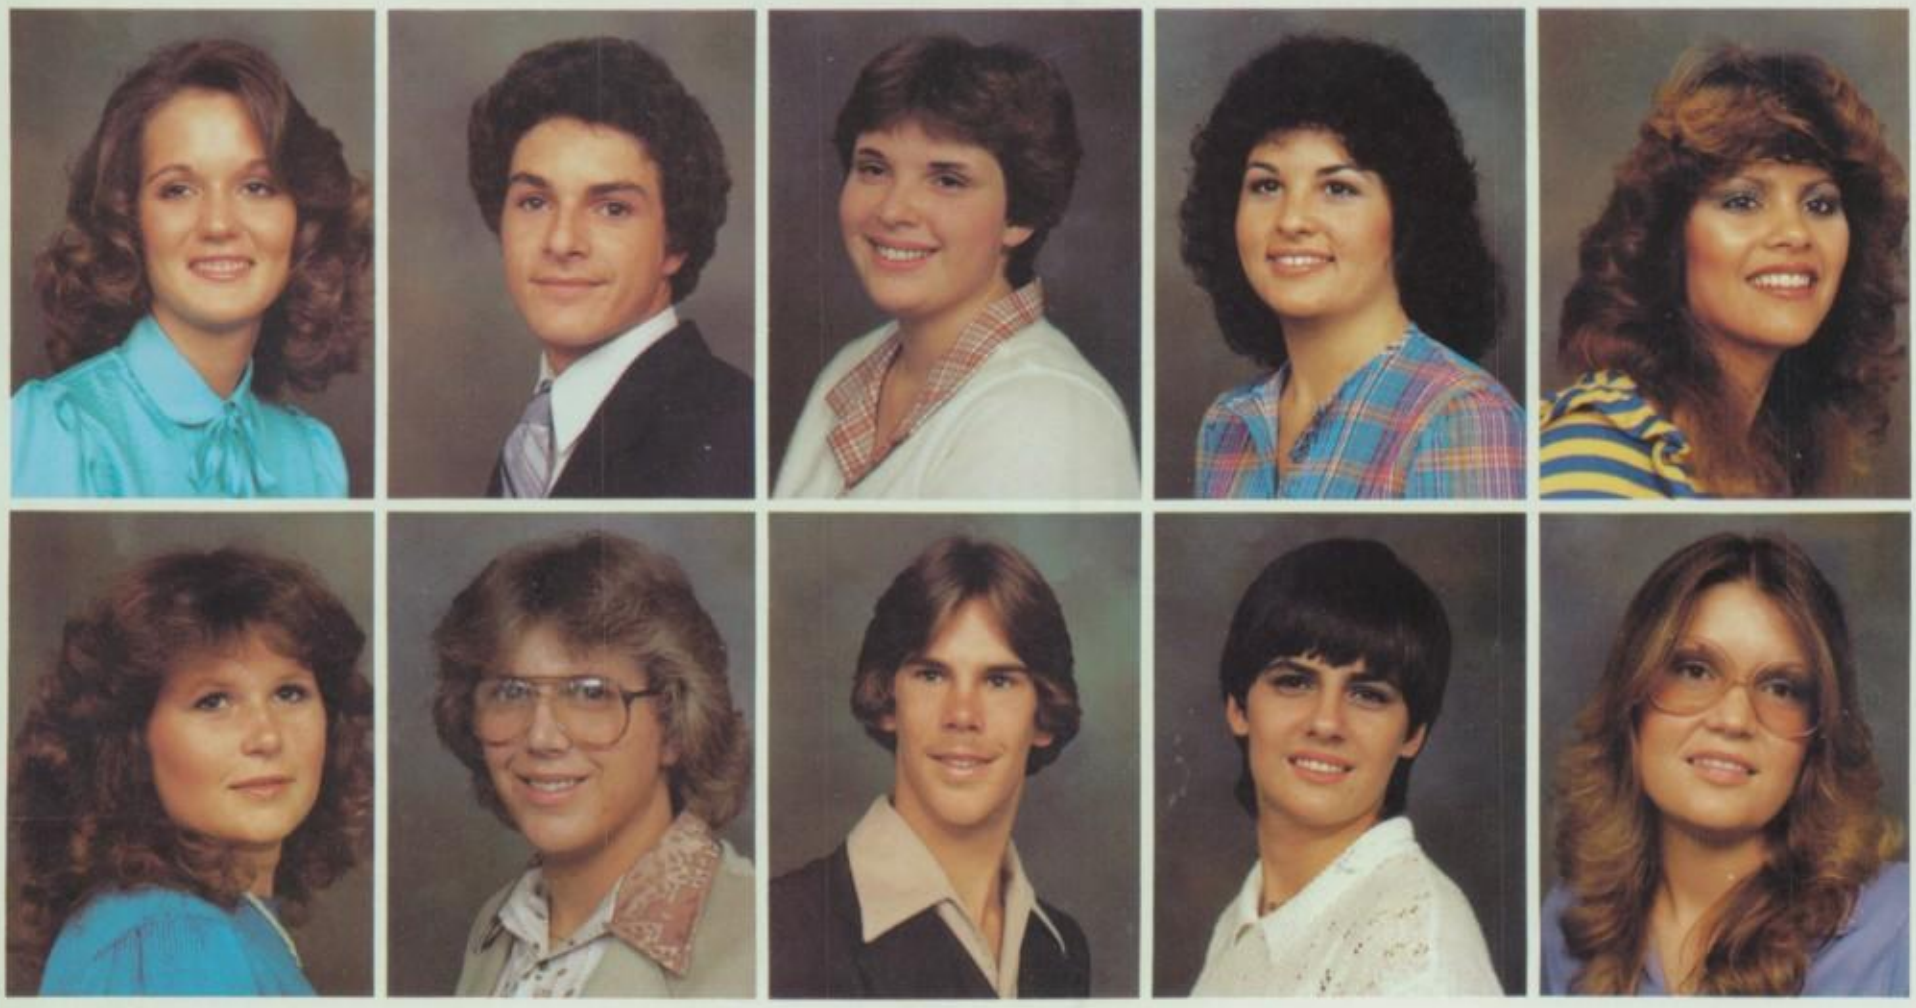
Talented Seniors Shine Through

Lena Park and Doug Williams were voted "Most Talented" for their expertise in piano playing. Doug first became interested in playing the piano in the first grade. Lena has also been playing since she was young.

Lena has been part of Student Government for the past three years. She has been active in various groups, such as AFS, CSF, and Junior State. She was Editor-in-chief of "Meteor" during her junior year. She was also active in Student Government.

Doug also plays the French Horn for the Jazz Band and is Drum Major for the band. He has been Drum Major since his sophomore year. Doug has shown interest in other musical areas too.

Both Lena and Doug show potential with their unique abilities.



Watch Out Teachers Here They Come!

In virtually every class there is a student that makes a teacher very nervous. These students pick up on every mistake, can talk their way out of tardies and tests, and can manage to send the teacher into a state of panic with just a few words. These students can be "pests".

Rhonda Galletti and Scott Larson were chosen by the Senior Class as "Teacher's Pests" because of their outstanding ability to aggravate.

Rhonda has a lot of experience with faculty. She's been an office aide as well as a teacher's aide.

Scott kept busy with varsity and Junior varsity waterpolo and swimming as well as Junior Varsity basketball.

Both Rhonda and Scott made classes a little more exciting with their humor.

Radical Seniors Bring Out Spirit

Although nearly every student at Hanford High has said or done something "crazy"; it can't compare to the craziness of Janice Stewart and Mike Groeneveld. Their practical jokes, quick sense of humor, and sometimes outrageous stunts have earned them the title of "Most Radical" seniors.

Janice's craziness is well-known, however it doesn't detract from her achievements. Her active role in Student Government, college prep classes, and various school and community clubs is the balance to her more "radical" side.

Being a "radical" person hasn't interfered with Mike's athletic side. His activeness in Cross Country, basketball, and track helped to keep his craziness in line.

The fun-loving attitudes of Janice and Mike made the school a little more interesting and a lot more unpredictable.

Juniors Are One Step Away

Juniors were busy this year. Between "Boo" and "Bunny" grams, bake sales, and selling chili-dogs at the food fair, they earned enough money to put on the Jr./Sr. Prom.

The Prom was the major project for the Juniors. "Everything went exceptionally, and we were proud of the outcome," stated Margaret Dunn, Freshmen Vice President. The Prom was a lot of work, but when the officers and other students work together, they made the Prom special.

Homecoming will stand out in people's minds, although they didn't do as well as hoped. The Junior float captured second; they also placed second in powder puff football. Our goal next year is to win the Spirit stick and dominate Homecoming, stated Margret Dunn, Vice President, with a smile. "We thought it was a very good Junior year. Overall the students had a lot of enthusiasm and class participation," commented Cindy Wymore, President.

The sophomores were full of enthusiasm this year and have high expectations for next year. They were active in a number of fund raising activities which included the West Campus food fair, an after-game dance, a car wash in April, and the selling of growl towels, clickers and Santa grams, just to name a few events. A Valentine's Day computer match-up, which was used to find our school's ten most compatible people, was a fun way to raise money.

Most of the money raised was used to sponsor the Sadie Hawkin's Dance held on March 12. The dance gave girls a chance to ask out their favorite guy. The remainder of the money was saved for their senior year expenses.

"We really appreciated all the help with our fund raisers and events during this past year," stated 1985 Class President Bernadette Rodriguez. With a grin Secretary Maria Jones commented, "Our class really showed unity."

The sophomores are looking forward to more student involvement next year as well as being on the East Campus. As Vice-President, Larry Ross said, "School's not only for work, but also for play!"

'82-83' Freshmen Show Spirit

The Freshmen class started out the year fresh. They didn't hide their talents; during Homecoming they showed impressive spirit. They won the "Male Homecoming Queen and Female Homecoming King" contest, and they gained points through dressup days and other events. With their unity and energy they earned co-ownership of the Spirit Stick. "Homecoming was the highlight of the year," stated Freshmen Secretary Julie Knudson.

"The Freshmen are outstanding! Any Freshmen class that can tie for the spirit stick has got a lot of potential," stated Mr. Vincent, Student Government Advisor.

Freshmen had fund raisers during the year. A Cartoon show — given for community kids, bake sales, and the food fair helped them raise money to sponsor dances and other Freshmen related events.

The Class of 1986 has left its mark on Hanford High, and plans to continue on as strong as ever. "Our next three years will be as good as our Freshmen year. Better!" exclaimed Joann Vierra.

This year's advertising campaign was not as successful as in the past. Despite an enthusiastic Janus staff, we fell short of our goal by a considerable amount. "A total of $5,500 was brought in from the many businesses and patrons around Hanford and Lemoore. This was a major drop from last year's balance of 8,500 dollars," commented Janie Thornton, Advertising Editor.

A main cause for the decline in advertising seemed to be because of inflation. "Inflation really was a major problem. Many businesses who have advertised in the Janus, in past years, complained that they just couldn't afford it this year," stated Shawna McCoy, Advertising staff member.

Many people do not understand the importance of having advertisements in the yearbook.

Inspite of the decline in advertising we would like to thank all the people and businesses who supported us by purchasing ads or sponsoring the Janus. Your help was greatly needed and appreciated.

Although the ad sales were down, the yearbook sales took a jump for the better. This year, a total of approximately $18,000 was raised in yearbook sales. Yearbooks were sold to most of the students and staff as well as many businesses and patrons around Hanford and Lemoore. We hope you will support the Janus in the years to come.

Manuel Pedro, Dairyman from Hanford, California, recently had Cameron's Westfalia Sales & Service intall ten Automatic Detachers in his twenty-cow Flat Barn.

Manuel milks 200 cows with one milker and says, "Having Westfalia Automatic Detachers is like having an extra man in the barn. The cows are being milked properly while the milker is outside bringing in the next string and the Westfalia ACR is taking care that the cow is not overmilked."

GRADUATION!!!

A very special thanks to all those students who have helped the class of '83 successfully accomplish its various activities over the years. The names, even if we had a record of all of them, would be too numerous to mention. So to all of you, wherever and whomever you are: THANKS FOR YOUR HELP AND SUPPORT!

An extra special thanks to:

LONN MAIR

Class advisor for all 4 years for the Class of '83.
Thank you for all you've done, Mr. Mair.

GOSDOG

1. Varsity Football team tear up their opponents. 2. Scott Davis and Marilyn Perriera as gangsters. 3. Janie Thorton, John Maciel and Carolyn Lemmon examine the food at the Fair. 4. Meat team members; John Olivas, James Rapozo, Alfred Rapozo, and David DeSilva. 5. Patty Dybas poses.

Many memorable events have taken place in the past school year. Students have excelled in activities, sports and academics throughout the year, leaving behind them a trail of accomplishments for future classes to match and surpass.

Some of the accomplishments that stand out and have left their mark at the close of the school year were the: Future Farmers of American's Meats Team (held in Kansas City, Missouri) placing first in the national competition, Hanford High School's Varsity Waterpolo securing the Valley Championship, Varsity Football obtaining second place in the Valley Play-offs, and the first Academic Decathlon team setting the building blocks for competition to come. In addition, a new weight room was built on the East Campus, by the Booster Club, for HUHS.

This was a year in which the financial difficulties of the school cast a shadow over some activities. In spite of the shadow, the students and staff were able to persevere and succeed in making 1982-83 a year of great achievement and enjoyment.

Dangerously Different

If a student from another school were to visit the Hanford High campuses on a regular day, they might not see anything outlandish. It would not be very hard for them to see that Hanford High students were determined to be different and unusual in every way imaginable to them.

Each class tries to leave a more permanent mark than the preceding classes. They try to dress differently, achieve better grades and participate in more activities; ranging from sports to clubs to Homecoming events.

Janus Staff Makes Time For More Involvement

The Janus yearbook was a very big responsibility, in that it tried to capture a time in our lives that we will carry with us always.

This responsibility leaves little extra time for outside activity, yet some of the staff managed to find the time for other activities such as homecoming, sports, clubs and work experience, while managing their academic assignments.

In the end, it was agreed that the experience was all worthwhile and "Created a lot of memories," as stated by Dana Lockhart, Classes staff member.

Some of the memories included spoiled photographs, poor proofs, missed deadlines, nontyping typewriters, no shows for photograph sessions and yearlong pressure. But by the final deadline most had learned to cope. It was statistically shown that two out of every five Janus members were playing with a full layout.

"Janus" Means More

Janus is a mythical god who guards portals and is a patron of beginnings and endings. This can be applied to the school itself representing a guardian who watches many students pass through its doors each year and who is there for the beginning and ending of every school year. To most of the students at Hanford High School, though, the Janus simply means their annual school yearbook, which contains their friends, teachers and the events of the past year.

To us on the Janus staff "The Janus" had a much greater meaning. It represented hard work, responsibility, extra hours spent in Room 5 after school and on weekends. Most of all it shows an accomplishment we can be proud of, a way in which we have left our mark upon the school and captured memories of the past school year that will be looked upon for years to come.

The Janus staff would like to thank all those who contributed to this year's Janus and without who's help this book could not have been possible.

I would like to thank my staff and Ms. Barker for supporting me through the year. The cooperation of many people at HUHS was evident from the smiles we found. The book gave me many new experiences to learn from and remember. Most of all though, it gave me a chance to get to know a great group of people.

Veronica Pedro
Janus Editor

4. Sharon Barker explains a layout to Gordon Myers. 5. Janus photographers; Jennifer Schell, Robyn Ketchum, Denise Simas, Hallie Haslett, Dan Smith and David Weisser. 6. Gail Eberly looks up caption size in the copy book.

In Memory Of Alan Ecker

Beyond Life's Gateways

There's an open gate
At the end of the road
Through which each must go alone
And there is a light we cannot see
Our Father claims His own
Beyond the gate your loved one
Finds happiness and rest
And there is comfort
In the thought
That a loving God knows best.

With special thoughts from
Steve Wescoat and Family
Darlene and David Hickey and Family and the Ecker Family

Alan, We'll remember you always for the gift you gave us all, yourself.

In dedicated memory,
The Junior Class

WALSWORTH PUBLISHING COMPANY
MARCELINE, MISSOURI, U.S.A.

Dena,
You are a special lady. I really enjoyed the relationship that we had. I would like to ask you with respect, to STOW DOWN. Without being nervous and jumpy you can still live your "normal" life. The other 10% is just unnecessary anyway. You don't get high blood pressure ~~from~~ either. Don't get too tanned this summer; it wouldn't want your pretty face to wrinkle prematurely. ☺. Have fun swimming next year. Double

go right around me Hester

Dear Cheerleading was great, especially with a fanatic like you. Your perky personality + pretty face are one of the sweetest + prettiest girls I've ever known. I'm so glad we were friends. I hope you have a grand time next year + the years ahead. In sure I'll see you again! If not remember me always.

Love Lots,

Helene

Merry Xmas.

Well I really enjoy getting to know you this year! Maybe you will this next year! Maybe I'll run with you more. I & I your mind, I run many more! I & I hopefully many more! I & I and swim next year maybe I will s better, Well I can't know you better, so so or anything else to write, so so

Love, Bryon

Dena,
A really special friend
who's there when needed.
An outstanding athlete,
pretty, sweet, and kind.
Be sure to play polo
this summer and don't forget POLO IS #1
ALWAYS. WE ARE THE CHAMPIONS!!

Tom

We'll get back for racketball soon-!!

Dena -
To a great young lady who gives us
the drive to go on in life.

God bless you,
Your friend
"84" always,
Joe
Barron

-Dena-
So a real pest! Just kidding! You're a real neat person and I admire you a great deal! I'm really glad I got to know you this year because you deserve to know a great person like me. Really,
I'm joking. Thanks for always being there for me or just acting like it. You are such a neat person who's got just about everything. (except a chest) Well, we can start a club for girls like us. I hope we see a lot of each other next year because it would be dull not seeing you. Congratulations on swimming, water polo, and your test. Well love ya!

Love,
Trudy

To Dena
a good friend a like to give a hand time.
You are a very pretty lady.
Good luck in cheerleading
I will try to fine-up the crowds next.
Tony Ross

Hey -

Dena, I never really got to know you too well until this year but I'm really glad I did - friendly - no bull!
You a girl who's sooo talented, sooo pretty and friendly - you're incredibly nice. Have fun next year and now that you'll be a senior - you can dew it. Hope to see you this summer and have a hell of a senior year!
Love ya lots -
"Emmie Hotel"
Miss L. Park

Dena, Thanks again for all your hard work to make this great year for cheerleading. We have lots of special memories from it. I am looking forward to another super year next year. It's people like you who make things happen.
Love,
Mrs. Vincent

Dena,
Thanks for a great year cheerleading - I enjoyed it very much
P.S. Don't forget cheerleading camp

Dena
Do a beutiful girl
and a great summer hope to see you next year in the swimming pool!!!
Remember 86 rules!!

Don Clardy

DENA

TO A NICE (VERY NICE)
~~PERSON~~. SINCE I'M NOT GOING TO BE HERE NEXT YEAR, I GUESS I'LL SAY GOODBYE - GOODBYE!
I'LL SEE YOU AROUND

LOVE,
~~AARON~~
T. ESTES

To Dena

We've always been friends even though sometimes we both didn't know it. It was real easy to talk ~~to~~ you (sometimes). The times that we both just smiled and talked really had a good positive uplifting feeling. Just keep your priorities straight next year: School, Swimming, Boys, then cheerleading; and you will be a success and will go to any major college you want to!

Love Scott A. Gross

Dena,
You will be the only ex-cheerleader in Kings County to become a M.D.. People like you make worthwhile! Mark teaching
Hames

Dena,
To the most sincere and beautiful girl
I know. I didn't
ASK you out last time just to go out with anyone. I really want to go out with you! Well, hopefully some time you'll say yes. Good luck next year. See you lots, hopefully!
Love always,
Greg

P.S. Don't swim too hard!

Dena-
A very sweet pretty girl who
I never really got a chance to know well. Stay cool & have fun this summer.
Love,
Dawn Cook

Dena-
Well we have one more year left and I can't remember our freshman year. Of the welcome back dance with Dawn. That was a lot of fun. I'm glad we were partners and I hope we always will be. Have a nice summer and I'll see you next year.
Love
Susan

Dena:
I'm really glad we became good friends. You are a special friend. Now that we are Juniors, I expect you to behave. Take care, have a great summer, and be good next year.
God Luck

To a very pretty girl and good friend. Keep looking just the way you are and take care. Keep up the sun tan. Fun having you in Chemistry. And maybe in PHYSICS (you better take it). Have a great fun summer.
See you later
See you

Dena-
Thanks for being a friend - hope to see you over the summer and next year -
Have a great time getting tanned -

Dena-

You're a super nice, smart, pretty girl who's been a blast to have in some of my classes. I like you for your personality. you're nice, pretty, popular, and most of all you get involved. Not very many people realize how important this is. Thanks for representing our class.

Friends always,

Tom Kocyynski

Dena,

It was really nice knowing you in chemistry this year. You're a really sweet girl and I know you'll do far. Have fun being a Senior!
